INTRODUCTION.

More than a quarter of a century ago, I began to ask myself "Who were my forefathers?" and to set about trying to answer the question. I took up this quest and have carried it forward in the midst of an exceedingly busy life, and of many engrossing cares. The results accomplished have required much time and study. Great numbers of letters have been written, records and documents have been examined, and hundreds of town and local histories and published genealogies have been consulted. Necessarily the work has not been continuous. Other occupations prevented doing very much at any one time. But the purpose has been always in mind, and more or less correspondence usually on hand.

Genealogical research is a subject of much interest, and the pursuit and identification of a family ancestor a source of very great pleasure to the pursuer. Then, too, the incidental study of American history is to the genealogist exceedingly valuable.

This work came to me also as a duty. I have been informed so often, that some one not long dead could have answered my questions, or that some person once had a family record but it was now lost, that I felt it incumbent on me to collect and put together what was yet available, lest, after another passing generation, much of it would be lost forever.

It is too much to hope that what I have gathered is free from errors. Great care has, however, been taken to make it a record of facts, and much that has been reported as family tradition has been left out, because not sufficiently authenticated.

In following the lives of my early forefathers, I have become more familiar with the settlement of the Atlantic coast, and with the struggles of the hardy pioneers who made the first homes of white people there, and whose descendants pressed westward from generation to generation. My ancestors no longer seem to me far away. I know them. For instance, in my thoughts I have hunted and fished and walked and talked with Peter Gunnarson Rambo, along the Delaware, many years before William Penn came to give his name to the unbroken forest which stretched away five hundred miles to the West. All his simple, rugged life has pictured itself in my mind, and he has become a real person to me; and he is but one of the many of those sturdy, honest men who were laying the foundations of a nation.

I have been peculiarly impressed with the longevity of our early forefathers and mothers. They were often in the midst of privations and exposures, and their manner of living was plain and often hard,—but how long they lived! And how much, too, of real good they did! Most of them were Christians,—and were people of great faith. They were not troubled with the doubts and questions which meet one everywhere in this modern time; their families were large, and they were reared in the fear of God. And out of that simple, rugged religious life came the great men of the Revolution. There are twenty-five times as many people in our country today as were in the colonies when they declared their independence. If the manhood of our time were as strong, or true, or righteous as then we ought to find twenty-five each of Washingtons, Hamiltons, Jeffersons, Franklins, Adamses, Morrisises, and others who were the mighty heroes of that era. It is a comfort and an encouragement to mankind, that modern arts, and luxurious living are not necessary to the production of the best and truest and greatest manhood. Rather it has been from homes where life was plain, and where there appeared to be a poverty of pleasures and amusements that men have come who have been the leaders and benefactors of mankind. Let this fact, demonstrated so fully in our history, be an encouragement to those whose worldly circumstances are straightened. Luxurious living and pleasure seeking have been the blight and ruin of many noble souls. Character, not condition, measures success in life.

Every man inherits composite blood and natural tendencies which do much to make him what he shall become. The farmer knows this well as regards the lower animals, and he gives most careful attention to the pedigree of his horses and other stock. How much more important the genealogy of man which involves not only physical being, but also the higher intellectual, moral and Christian faculties.

We seldom remember that our ancestors double with each generation. Each of us has, or had, two parents, four grandparents, eight great-grandparents, sixteen great-great-grandparents, and so on. Going no farther back than the tenth generation, beginning with ourselves as number one, we find five hundred and twelve ancestors of that degree. In the eleventh there are one thousand and twenty-four. In the twenty-first the number is more than one million and in the thirty-first more than a thousand millions of ancestors! Yet the thirty-first generation carries us back only about one thousand years, or a little beyond the time of William the Conqueror. This seems astonishing and impossible, but it is a fact. It must also be remembered, however, that as we ascend in the family lines the number of ancestors is rapidly reduced by intermarriages between blood relations. In fact, if all lines could be traced out, the people of each clan or race would all be seen to be many-sided cater cousins to each other, and the whole social structure to be a complicated mosaic of interwoven genealogies. Verily, "God hath made of one blood all the nations of the earth."

A few persons are able to trace out their remote progenitors until they reach some one who has worn a crown; and they can show you the line of what they call their royal descent. They are not rare exceptions if all the records of every person were known. They are unusual in that the facts have been preserved. Probably every one living would find a crowned head in some of his lines if he could follow them all far enough. This, however, might not always be a matter of especial satisfaction.

Most people over-emphasize the father lines. Very many of them hardly know the maiden names of their mothers; while ignorance of either name of their maternal grandparents is very common. Each of us is as really a descendant of his mother as of his father; and her father and mother, and her lines of ancestry have contributed just as much to make us what we are, as have our ancestors in the father's line. It is only a matter of name. For instance, about 1730, John Jenkins married Rebecca Meredith, their descendants bear the Jenkins name but are just as much Meredith as Jenkins through all their generations. If they had carried the mother's instead of the father's name this would be evident. In recognition of this I have sought to follow up maternal lines as far as possible, to the first American immigrant.

The Jenkins-Raymond ancestry in all its lines is a most worthy one. Nowhere among all these families is there a word or suspicion of dishonor. For the most part these ancestors have been well-to-do farmers and tradesmen, belonging to the great class of honest and industrious citizens which has ever been, and ever must be, the reliance and hope of the nation.

The Jenkins genealogy and the larger portion of other facts brought together here have not been heretofore published.

I cannot make separate acknowledgement of all the sources from which I have gathered information. Where family genealogies have been published as is the case with the Raymonds, Putnams, and others, they have been freely consulted.

JENKINS GENEALOGY.

First Generation

DAVID JENKINS—MARGARET REES (?).

David Jenkins emigrated from Wales about, perhaps before 1700, and settled in the Great Valley of Chester Co., Pa. An old family Bible gives his place of settlement as "near Great Valley Church." This is not definite as there were four churches so known. The reference is supposed to have been to St. Peter's Episcopal, which was the first of the four. The early Jenkinses were usually Episcopalians, later Presbyterians.

A thorough investigation made by Gilbert Cope, a genealogist of recognized standing at West Chester, Pa., seems to identify this original American ancestor with David Jenkins of Whiteland township, a weaver and farmer, whose estate was administered in Philadelphia under letters issued to his son David, Oct.

5, 1745. The name of wife was Margaret, perhaps Margaret Rees. Administrator's bond four hundred pounds sterling. One of the appraisers was David Meredith, probably the father of the wife of John Jenkins, next following. There are no papers or records on file giving names of children. The old Bible record referred to above mentions the said John, but says nothing as to whether he had or had not other children. If he has been properly identified in David of Whiteland, then he had also the son David of whom nothing more has been discovered by the writer of this work.

Second Generation.

JOHN JENKINS—REBECCA MEREDITH.

John Jenkins of Windsor, son of the first David, born 1711, died at Windsor, 1777. Married about 1730, Rebecca, daughter of David Meredith. (See Meredith and Rush ancestors.) John Jenkins settled in 1733, in the Conestoga Valley, in Carnarvon township, near Churchtown, and was the first settler there. He represented William Branson, an English gentleman, for whom he purchased a large tract of land and erected the Windsor Iron Works, which were among the first in Pennsylvania. They afterwards became the property successively of his son David Jenkins and of his grandson, Robert Jenkins. His wife, Rebecca, died Sept. 5, 1771, aged 64. Both John and Rebecca were buried in the Episcopal Churchyard, Churchtown, Pa. They were members and supporters of that church.

CHILDREN OF JOHN AND REBECCA (MEREDITH) JENKINS.

- 1 David Jenkins, born July 2, 1731.
- 2 John Jenkins, born September 24, 1732.
- 3 Isaac Jenkins, born December 12, 1733, married Jane ———, a Quaker lady of Doerun, Chester County, Pa.
- 4 Margaret Jenkins, born August 14, 1735, died October 4, 1735.
- 5 George Jenkins, born December 14, 1736, married Miss Middleton and resided in Philadelphia, Pa. Probably died before 1774, leaving a daughter, Mary.
- 6 William Jenkins, born September 29, 1738, married Mary, daughter of Rev. Samuel Blair. Had one son, who died on a voyage to the West Indies.
- 7 Jenkin Jenkins, born April 24, 1741, died August 17, 1759.
- 8 Rebecca Jenkins, born January 13, 1742, married David or John Morgan of Morgantown, Pa. Had two sons living in 1774.
- 9 Joseph Jenkins, born January 30, 1745.
- 10 Benjamin Jenkins, born September 28, 1747, died August 4, 1759.

John Jenkins left a large estate. His sons, John Isaac and Joseph were made executors of his will, and his "loving friends Jacob Morgan and Robert Armor" were therein appointed "overseers of this my will to take care and see it performed according to my true intent and meaning." The will was dated in 1774 and proved May 17, 1777. He devised "that plantation and tract of land whereon I now live" to his son John. He also gave "plantations" to his sons Isaac and Joseph, and money bequests to David, William and Rebecca, also to his granddaughter Mary, the daughter of his son George. He mentions "my kinswoman Annie Rees." Then we get a glimpse of the "peculiar institution" which afterward led to the Civil war, and which then existed in a mild form in Pennsylvania. He says: "Whereas, I have hired my negro man Quash to my son John for eleven years from the first day of March, 1772, at the end of which time I do allow my said negro man to be free from serving any person on my account. And I give my negro woman Cooba to my daughter Rebecca. But if my negro man Quash will be able to pay my daughter the sum of forty pounds at any time within three years after the expiration of the said eleven years, then it is my will that my said negro woman be free. and serve no person any longer than till the said forty pounds are paid."

The old Jenkins homestead at Churchtown has been in the family through all succeeding generations, and is now owned by Miss Blanche Nevin, the well-known sculptor, a lineal descendant of said John Jenkins, the first.

Third Generation.

JOSEPH JENKINS SARAH MORGAN.

Joseph Jenkins, ninth child of John and Rebecca (Meredith) Jenkins, born Jan. 30, 1745, married Sarah Morgan, daughter of Gen. Jacob Morgan of Morgantown. Lived on a farm in the Conestoga Valley.

THEIR CHILDREN.

- 1 Mary Jenkins, born October 25, 1770.
- 2 Jacob Jenkins, born February 20, 1772, died January 16, 1847, never married, resided, died and buried at Morgantown.
- 3 Rachel Jenkins, born December 13, 1773, married ——— Morgan, died in New Orleans, La., while on a visit to her uncle, Benjamin Morgan.
- 4 John Jenkins, born December 12, 1775, died June 4, 1776.
- 5 Benjamin Jenkins, born September 4, 1777, died August 30, 1778.
- 6 Rebecca Jenkins, born August 30, 1779.
- 7 William Jenkins, born February 14, 1782, died in New Orleans. Left two daughters, Adeline and Eunice. His widow married an English merchant—Vanhartengen, who took the children to England, and after their mother's death to the West Indies.

- 8 Isaac Jenkins, born April 15, 1784.
- 9 Elizabeth Jenkins, born February 7, 1787, died in Philadelphia.
- 10 Sarah Jenkins, born June 18, 1789, married Alexander Henry of Philadelphia. She died April 7, 1847. Left one daughter, Elizabeth, who married Geo. W. Evans, resided in Philadelphia, died about 1890, left no children.
- 11 Joseph Jenkins, born June 7, 1791, died in New Orleans.
- 12 Benjamin Jenkins, born January 18, 1794, died in New York City. Left two daughters, Sarah and Mary. The former married ——— Kames, a merchant, of Philadelphia. His widow married David Finger of Morgantown, Pa., and had one daughter, Hannah. She and her daughter were living, 1893, at Morgantown.
- 13 Susanna Jenkins, born March 9, 1796, died April 3, 1797.

JENKINS GENEALOGY.

SECTION ONE.

DESCENDANTS OF
JOHN AND ELIZABETH (DOUGLAS)
JENKINS.

Third Generation.

JOHN JENKINS—ELIZABETH DOUGLAS.

John Jenkins, second son of John and Rebecca (Meredithe) Jenkins, born Sept. 24, 1732, married Elizabeth Douglas of Douglasville, Pa., Oct. 30, 1770 (see Douglas ancestors.) He died March 7, 1810, aged 77, and his widow, Elizabeth, died April 4, 1825, aged 75.

THEIR CHILDREN.

- 1 Mary Jenkins, born July 28, 1774, married Peter Trego, died in Chester County, Pa., September 5, 1841, buried at Waynesburg.
- 2 George Jenkins, born August 30, 1776.
- 3 William Jenkins, born June 27, 1778, died in Lancaster County, November 23, 1834, buried in Bangor churchyard. Never married.
- 4 John Jenkins, born September 8, 1780, died August 15, 1795.
- 5 Rebecca Jenkins, born October 10, 1782, married Thomas Morgan, settled and resided in Venango County, Pa. Had one son and six daughters.

- 6 Andrew Jenkins, born October 25, 1785, died August 9, 1787.
- 7 Elizabeth Jenkins, born November 15, 1787, married Isaac McCalmont, died in Chester County. Left a family of two sons and seven daughters, some of whom were recently still residing on the family homestead near Mast P. O. in the Pequea Valley. There was one daughter named Mary D. and one son Levi.
- 8 Hannah Jenkins, born February 15, 1790, died August 11, 1795.

This John Jenkins was a prosperous yeoman, both he and his wife inheriting and sustaining the names and prominence of the two leading families to which they belonged.

There is a tradition noted in letters received by the writer, that he served in the Revolutionary army in the batallion commanded by his brother David, but this has not been verified. His granddaughter, the late Margaret (Jenkins) Hendricks, used to tell the writer of how he hauled grain to Valley Forge to feed the American army, and of the trials and dangers which he endured on these expeditions.

Fourth Generation.

GEORGE JENKINS—CATHERINE HAMILTON.

George Jenkins, first son of John and Elizabeth (Douglas) Jenkins, born Aug. 30, 1776, married Catherine Hamilton, Aug., 1800, (see Hamilton-Jenkins ancestors) died in Chester Co., Pa., Aug. 15, 1829. Buried at Pequea. Catherine (Hamilton) Jenkins died Aug. 28, 1833.

He was a farmer and miller, having a prosperous start in life, but met financial reverses. In a letter to the writer of this genealogy, from Martha Jenkins Nevin, written in 1884, after referring to the original Windsor homestead, she says: "The adjoining place was inherited by your grandfather George Jenkins, son of John Jenkins, second, who built on it a very large and costly mill at a time of great financial embarrassment, and it caused his failure, as also the failure of David Jenkins, a brother of my father, who had endorsed for him, and who lived on an adjoining farm higher up the creek."

CHILDREN OF GEORGE AND CATHERINE (HAMILTON) JENKINS.

- 1 Elizabeth Jenkins, born June 29, 1801, died March 3, 1884.
- 2 Margaret Jenkins, born April 4, 1803, died July 13, 1860.
- 3 Mary Jenkins, born March 7, 1805, died October 28, 1831, never married.
- 4 John Jenkins, born March 19, 1807, died September 23, 1843, never married.
- 5 James H. Jenkins, born June 1, 1809, died April 4, 1853.
- 6 William Jenkins, born July 22, 1811, died July 31, 1840, never married.
- 7 George Washington Jenkins, born June 13, 1813, died February 6, 1859.
- 8 Robert Jenkins, born February 11, 1816, died January 13, 1858.
- 9 Thomas F. Jenkins, born February 11, 1818, died ———.
- 10 Jacob Morgan Jenkins, born October 14, 1819, died January 25, 1865.
- 11 Nathaniel W. Jenkins, born March 19, 1822, died April 3, 1833.
- 12 Molton D. P. Jenkins, born August 1, 1824, died November 12, 1862.
- 13 Benjamin Amzie Babbitt Jenkins, born July 22, 1828, died October, 1900.

The first ten were born in Lancaster Co., and last three in Chester Co., Pa.

Elizabeth Jenkins, No. 1 above, married William Smith. They lived in Pennsylvania and had two daughters, one of whom died unmarried; the other married a Mr. Long of Oxford, Pa., but died early in life, leaving one daughter, Mary Josephine Long, who grew up and married Taylor Rogers; lived at Oxford, Pa.; died in 1875, leaving two sons, one of whom has since died unmarried; the other son, Howard Smith Rogers, a young man, resided, 1899, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Margaret Jenkins, No. 2 above, married first, in Pa., April 3, 1831, Elisha Wilson, who died Aug. 12, 1834. She came west with her brother, and married, second, at Fairfield, Iowa, May 29, 1844, William A. Hendricks of that place. He died there about 1855. She afterward died at the home of the family of her brother Robert, near Alexandria, Mo. Her body lies in Wolf Cemetery, St. Francisville, Mo. There were no children of either marriage. Mr. Hendricks left a son, William T., by a first marriage. She resided at Fairfield, Iowa, for many years, and was a member of the Congregational church there until her death. She was a faithful Christian, and a true and noble woman. Her disposition was cheerful, and she was always hopeful and courageous. After the death of Elizabeth, the first wife of her brother, Robert, she took his infant son, the writer, then eight months old, to her home at Fairfield, where she watched over and cared for him during his infancy and early childhood. She could not have done more than she did for him for a child of her own. After the death of Mr. Hendricks, she went with the boy to live with his father in Missouri.

The writer is that boy and desires to leave this record of his grateful remembrance of her love and care. Nor does he forget her husband, Mr. Hendricks. He was a genial, kindly, helpful man, and a good citizen. A native of Kentucky, he was an ardent Whig, supporting General Taylor in 1848 and General Scott in 1852. He was a leader in the local politics of Fairfield. In 1852 he resided on a farm about a mile east of the town, and there he set up a flag pole for me, from the top of which I kept flying in all pleasant weather a "Scott and Graham" American flag. It was great fun for me, a six year old child, to get together a few other little fellows, and go marching around that flag, shouting for Scott. I well remember how utterly broken hearted I was when I learned of his defeat.

Fifth Generation.

JAMES H. JENKINS—MARY LONG.

James H. Jenkins, No. 5 above, died near Alexandria, Mo., and his body lies buried at Wolf Cemetery, St. Francisville, Mo. He married Aug. 11, 1842, Mary Long; lived on a farm which he owned at the time of his death. His widow married David Eiler, and removed to California, where she died at Ono, Shasta Co., Aug. 12, 1892.

CHILDREN OF JAMES H. AND MARY (LONG) JENKINS.

- 1 George Washington Jenkins, born December 4, 1843, died in California about 1895, never married.
- 2 John Jenkins, born 1845, died in infancy.
- 3 Sarah Elizabeth Jenkins, born May 18, 1847.
- 4 Thomas Douglas Jenkins, born April, 1849, died in infancy.
5. Mary Catherine Jenkins, born September 27, 1851.
Concerning Sarah and Mary see post.

Fifth Generation.

GEORGE WASHINGTON JENKINS—MARY JEFFREY.

George Washington Jenkins, No. 7 above, married, first, June 2, 1846, Mary Jeffrey, who died leaving no surviving issue. He married, second, at Fairfield, Iowa, Anna Berger, by whom he had two children.

- 1 Anna Mary Jenkins, who grew up, married Joseph Frank Richards and died subsequently, leaving no surviving issue.
- 2 Samuel Alexander Jenkins, born March 31, 1857, married, first, April 4, 1883, Huldah Adelaide Peterson, who died leaving no issue. He married, second, June 20, 1900, Lydia Helen Stoetzel, daughter of John and Rosa Stoetzel of Scribner, Neb. Lydia Helen Stoetzel was born at Fremont, Neb., Aug. 7, 1869. They resided (1900) at No. 4268 Castleman Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

George Washington Jenkins was a merchant, first at Fairfield, Iowa, afterwards at Alexandria, Mo. Buried at Fairfield.

Fifth Generation.

ROBERT JENKINS—ELIZABETH RAMBO.

Robert Jenkins, eighth son of George and Catherine (Hamilton) Jenkins, died on his farm near Alexandria, Mo., and his body was buried in Wolf Cemetery, St. Francisville, Mo. He married, first, in Chester Co., Pa., Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Rambo (see Rambo ancestors.) They came West and settled in Clark Co., Mo., near the village of Chambersburg, about thirty miles west of the Mississippi river, where all their children were born. Elizabeth (Rambo) Jenkins died October 11, 1846. Her body was buried in the burying ground near Chambersburg, where it still lies. Robert Jenkins married, second, Martha Schee, widow of Arnold Schee of Clark Co., Mo. She was daughter of John McRea. It is said her parents came from the South. She had one child of her first marriage, George Washington Schee, who has led a successful business life. He resides at Primghar, Iowa. Martha (McRea) Jenkins died about 1857; buried in Wolf Cemetery, St. Francisville, Mo.

Robert Jenkins removed about 1852, to the eastern part of Clark County, and purchased and settled upon a farm four miles west of Alexandria, Mo., and nine miles by the road from Keokuk, Iowa. He was a successful farmer, and left a large estate. His industry and energy were remarkable, and his tireless activity and exposure to the elements brought on his last sickness, from which he would doubtless have recovered but for his habit of persistent work, and his neglect to take proper precautions necessary to restore his health. He had a most unusual vital tenacity and lived and worked for four years after the disease which ended his life had fastened itself upon him. He had a strong individuality, and was frank, straightforward and honest in all his dealings.

Elizabeth (Rambo) Jenkins, his wife, was born Feb. 26, 1813. Two years after her birth, her mother died. Elizabeth, when she grew older, did not remain at home with her father, but lived with the Russell family in Chester County, Pa., for some years previous to her marriage. In a letter written by her husband after her decease, he speaks especially of the Russells and he says Elizabeth ever cherished the memory of their kindness to her. Her father married again and his eldest child by his second marriage was Sarah Ann who married William James McKim, and between her and Elizabeth there was a strong sisterly affection. The western country to which Robert and Elizabeth came was new; there was much sickness and few doctors; they were remote from post offices and the roads were poor. They often referred to these matters in their letters to Mrs. McKim. The burden of her household and family cares, and the malarial climate were at length too much for even the constitution of Elizabeth, which was unusually strong. In the letter of her husband, already mentioned, he says: "It has been very sickly in this country this fall, we were all sick at one time, one not able to wait on another. It was distressing to see and hear of so much sickness." And he says of her, she died "of congestive fever." She was sick two weeks." "* * * This was the first severe sickness that she had had since we have been in the West." She belonged to a very long-lived stock, and it is sad indeed that she was called to leave her young children and pass over to the other side so early in life. She was a Presbyterian, and laments in one of her letters that there was no church of her preference near them. Her husband wrote of her: "She was a loving wife, a fond mother, and a sincere Christian. She was perfectly willing to try the reality of another world. It is a great comfort to me that she died in full faith of immortal glory."

Pictures in those early days were not common, and none of our mother has come down to us. Her daughter, Mrs. David Nelson Lapsley of Revere, Mo., remembers her well. Mrs. Sarah A. McKim, mentioned above, eighty-two years old in 1901, had also a distinct recollection of the appearance of her half-sister, Elizabeth. From the information received from these sources, Elizabeth (Rambo) Jenkins may be described as a slender woman, rather below medium height, with light golden hair and a fair complexion; her eyes were also light, perhaps blue, her features regular, and her disposition quiet, but sweet and cheerful. She was an attractive young woman of rare good sense.

The writer in company with Judge and Mrs. David Nelson Lapsley and Dr. George F. Jenkins of Keokuk, visited her grave Sept. 6, 1902, and found it and the tombstone in good condition. We also visited the same day the farm where she was living at the time of her death. It is located on a creek in the Fox river bottom, was then owned by a man named John Mantle. As we walked about this old Homestead, the thought of the hardships and privations she endured on the then frontier touched us very deeply. On the other hand, we remembered, thankfully, how her little flock of young children had all grown up and prospered; how each one had counted for something on the better side of the world's life, and how at that day after the lapse of fifty-six years, all except Huldah, who was called away early, were alive and in good health (and still so in 1904); and we felt that truly the life of our mother, short as it was, had not been lived in vain. What joy would have been hers could she have known what was to be the future of her children in her dying hour! But was it all hidden from her? Was not something of it realized to her faith, which sustained her and made her perfectly resigned to commit the care of her motherless little ones to the all-wise Father whom she so fully trusted? Yea, verily, "Faith is the victory which overcomes the world!"

The house on the Jenkins' farm near Alexandria was a two-story double affair with a great fire-place in the center, affording openings for log fires in the rooms on either side. It appeared to be frame, although one-half was built of logs and afterwards covered with weather boards.

It was a comfortable home. The farm of several hundred acres was successfully conducted, improved and enlarged by the father of the family. After his death its management devolved upon John William, the eldest son, while the twin sisters were the housekeepers, and the family lived together until all were grown up, in harmony, happiness and prosperity. The boys all worked on the farm, going to school in winter, until they reached manhood. The great value of the summer "school" attended by these youngsters is so generally appreciated that comment is unnecessary. It was a home of hospitality and good cheer, and the occasions were rare when there was not company at the table and over night.

The site of this home was not without attractions: To the east, four miles, across the flat bottom, at the confluence of the Mississippi and Des Moines rivers, nestled the little town of Alexandria, in the "fifties," a place of very extensive business and great ambitions. Along its levee front, sweeping on toward the Gulf, rolled the great Father of Waters, a mile in width, and on its opposite side rose up from the river's edge the towering bluffs crowned by the city of Warsaw, Illinois. To the west of this home at about the same distance, stretched a long ridge of sand perhaps fifty feet high, then back of that the rising blue hills covered with timber. On the sandy plain and along the foot of these bluffs were orchards and gardens and the commodious and hospitable farmhouses of well-to-do inhabitants. One mile north of the Jenkins home, the historic Des Moines wound its way, in the summer time a shallow and harmless stream, among its shifting sand bars; but swelled in its flood seasons to a mighty and resistless torrent, overflowing its banks and carrying destruction and terror to all the people of the plain. The Des Moines on its Iowa side was lined with high hills against the foot of which its waters beat continually, so that their fronts were undermined, and had slipped down and been carried away, leaving the faces of the hills to stand out bare and barren, justly called the yellow banks.

Two miles south of the Jenkins' home, the Fox river came down, lined on either side with a fringe of timber, a stream of considerable length and carrying a large volume of water. It will thus be seen that this homestead was situated in the midst of an extensive natural amphitheater, rivers on three sides, and bluffs to the east, to the north, and to the west. These natural boundaries enclosed some of the most productive land in the world. The soil was alluvium so required no fertilizing, and crops of corn yielding a hundred bushels, and of wheat thirty bushels, to the acre, were not uncommon.

Six miles away at the north end of the sand ridge, on the Des Moines, was located the little village of St. Francisville. Here is the Wolf Cemetery where so many of our beloved dead lie buried. St.

Francisville had been a place of some promise in the early days when an occasional steamboat found its way up that river, and when the building of a canal had been proposed and actually begun. But the canal died in its beginnings, business declined, and the people of St. Francisville devoted themselves chiefly to education, self culture and hospitality.

There were no railroads in that country and few anywhere in the "fifties." The Mississippi and its tributaries were the great arteries of commerce. The steamboats of that day were gorgeous palaces. Their owners and officers were kings and princes in the monetary and business world. These mighty vessels as they ploughed the water, going up and down, could be distinctly seen, and their triumphant whistles heard at the Jenkins farm. When the water was high they towered up and stood out in the sun seemingly above the land. They were majestic; they were grand; they have gone.

Along the main road the land was for the most part fenced and under cultivation but on the south there lay miles and miles of open prairie. Here in those days was an abundant free range, affording pasturage for great numbers of cattle for more than half the year. This prairie also afforded the best of wild hay to be had by all comers for the harvesting. There were also bayous and sloughs and an occasional grove. It was a paradise for water fowl, and was frequented by thousands upon thousands of wild geese and ducks in their annual flights to the North and to the South. There were prairie chickens, too, in such numbers that their cooing in the spring time sounded a continual roar and their flight at times would almost darken the sun and shake the earth. It was a place to make glad the heart of the farmer as well as of the hunter and the fisherman.

MARGARET JANE JENKINS DAVID NELSON LAPSLEY.

Margaret Jane Jenkins, one of the twin daughters of Robert and Elizabeth (Rambo) Jenkins, married

David Nelson Lapsley, at the Jenkins' homestead near Alexandria, Missouri, March 2, 1865.

CHILDREN.

- 1 Mary Elizabeth Lapsley, born November 23, 1865.
- 2 Robert McKee Lapsley, born January 22, 1870, now a practicing physician in Keokuk, Iowa.

Both born in Clark County, Missouri.

David Nelson Lapsley was Circuit Clerk of Clark County, Missouri, for a number of years, also County Judge, a graduate of Washington College, Pennsylvania, a lawyer and a successful farmer, living on his farm near Revere, in said county. The ancestry of David Nelson Lapsley is shown in the following statement written by him, February 12, 1892:

"My great-great-grandfather, Joseph Lapsley (then spelled L'Aspley) descended from French Huguenots, immigrated from North of Ireland to this country early in the last century. He settled in Virginia, and two of his brothers in Philadelphia, Pa. His son John (my grandfather) was born in Virginia, September 29th, 1753. His wife, Mary Armstrong, was born March 17th, 1760. They were married December 22nd, 1778. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and he and his wife were Presbyterians.

My father, John A. Lapsley, was born in Rockbridge County, Virginia, September 5th, 1783, and died December 13th, 1859. My mother, Mary Wear McKee, was born in same county November 20th, 1783, and died October 21st, 1859. They were married August 10th, 1805. My father was a Lieutenant Captain in Col. Richard M. Johnson's (the vice president) regiment of Kentucky volunteers. Was in the battle of Tippecanoe, and in several other engagements. He was a Presbyterian, and was a strong temperance man when nearly everybody used liquors. He paid about fifty thousand dollars security debts in his lifetime, and died in moderate circumstances. He had twelve children of whom I was the youngest.

My grandfather had two sons in the ministry Joseph B. and Robert A. and four grandsons, James L. Lapsley, D. D., John Lapsley Yantiss, D. D., John L. McKee, D. D. and Joseph Lapsley who died at the commencement of his ministry. He had eight great-grandsons in the ministry, William J. son of John P. Lapsley, three sons of James W. Lapsley, two sons of J. L. McKee and one son of J. L. Yantis.

My father's and mother's families both moved from Virginia to Kentucky in 1793. My father and family moved from Kentucky to Clark Co., Mo. in 1836.

My grandfather, William McKee, was born in the North of Ireland in 1724, and died October 8th, 1816. His father and grandfather moved to Pennsylvania in 1725. My grandfather moved to Virginia about 1745, where he was married to Miriam Wear. He afterwards married a Mrs. Daviess who was the mother of Joseph Hamilton Daviess, a brilliant lawyer killed at the battle of Tippecanoe; counties in Illinois, Indiana and Missouri are named after this Daviess. William McKee was a colonel in the Revolutionary war, was a member of the Virginia convention that adopted the constitution of the United States, was sheriff and member of the legislature for over twenty years. He had one son (Samuel) in Congress several years. His grandson, Wm. McKee Dunn, represented the Madison district Indiana several terms in Congress and was afterwards appointed by President Lincoln, Judge Advocate General, and he served through several administrations. His grandson, William R. McKee, was Colonel of the Second Kentucky Volunteer in the Mexican War, Col. Henry Clay, jr., was Lieutenant Colonel in the same regiment, and both were killed at the battle of Buena Vista. Another grandson, Samuel McKee, was Colonel of a regiment in the Federal Army, and was killed at Stone River. Another grandson (my brother William) was colonel of an Alabama regiment, C. S. A. Several of his descendants have been lawyers and preachers of considerable ability. A large majority of them have been and are Presbyterians."

The father of David Nelson Lapsley, owned, and at the time of his death, lived upon a large farm on the Des Moines river about four miles above St. Francisville. He was a man of sterling character.

GEORGE FRANKLIN JENKINS—CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH
VAN WAGENEN.

George Franklin Jenkins, second son of Robert and Elizabeth (Rambo) Jenkins, married Charlotte Elizabeth Van Wagenen, at her father's residence in Fulton, New York, December 29, 1870. She was born there September 13, 1847.

CHILDREN.

- 1 Anna Page Jenkins, born December 1, 1871, died July, 31, 1872.
- 2 Marcia Louise Jenkins, born July 16, 1873.
- 3 Florence Easton Jenkins, born September 8, 1874.
- 4 George Van Wagenen Jenkins, born May 20, 1877, died August 29, 1898.
- 5 Catherine Eleanor Jenkins, born April 19, 1886.

All born in Keokuk, Iowa, where the family reside. He is a practicing physician, and is and has been for many years President of the Keokuk Medical College, a man of large influence and great energy of character. He owns the old "home place" in the Des Moines bottom and has added to it until he has a great farm of more than one thousand acres. At the annual meeting of the American Medical Association held in New Orleans, Louisiana, May, 1903; he was elected one of the Vice-Presidents of the Association.

George Van Wagenen Jenkins, the only son, was a young man of much promise, a graduate of Parson's College, Fairfield, Iowa, and had already entered upon the study of medicine with his father. He was a born patriot, and when the tocsin of war with Spain sounded, he forsook the comforts of home, the pleasures of the best social life, and the studies of his chosen profession, and went forth at the call of his country. He enlisted in the Fifty-first Iowa, which became a part of General Lee's Corps in Florida. There he contracted the fever, his father went at once to him. He lived to reach his home, and there lingered a few days, and then, surrounded by those dear to him, he passed on—a beautiful young life, laid as a willing sacrifice upon the altar of his country.

ANCESTRY OF CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH VAN WAGENEN.

Parents: Frederick Devoe Van Wagenen, born July 18, 1815, died February 16, 1885.

JENKINS GENEALOGY.

SECTION TWO.

Third Generation.

DAVID JENKINS—MARTHA ARMOR.

David Jenkins, first son of John and Rebecca (Meredith) Jenkins, born July 2, 1731, married Martha Armor of Pequea, Lancaster Co., died June 27, 1797. He purchased the Windsor Forges and continued to be their proprietor during his life. He was a man of large public spirit and influence. Was Major and perhaps Colonel in the Revolutionary army. He was very active in organizing opposition to England. Was on the Committee of Safety for the county. In January, 1775, was one of the delegates from his county to a Provincial Convention held in Philadelphia, and also to a convention held there June 18th of the same year. June 25, 1776, he was one of his county's representatives in a conference of delegates from all the counties held in Lancaster. July 4, 1776, he was a member of a conference of representatives from the associators of Pa. In all references to him concerning these conventions he is styled Major. History of Pa., by Wm. H. Egle, pp. 145, 160, 827, etc.

His descendants have been numerous, and many of them of much prominence. His son, Robert, received the larger part of the ancestral estates and greatly increased them. Martha (Armor) Jenkins died April 9, 1802. Their children were all born and raised at Windsor, and were the following, viz :

- 1 John Jenkins, born July 13, 1761, died young.
- 2 Margaret Jenkins, born February 21, 1763, died June 17, 1769.

ROBERT JENKINS—CATHERINE M. CARMICHAEL.

Robert Jenkins, second son of David and Martha (Armor) Jenkins, born July 10, 1769, married 1799 Catherine M. Carmichael, daughter of Rev. John Carmichael of Brandywine Forks, Pennsylvania. Robert Jenkins died April 18, 1848, aged 79. His widow died Sept. 3, 1856, aged 82. Both buried in Presbyterian churchyard, Caernarvon, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Robert Jenkins was a man of very exceptional capacity, influence and wealth. The Windsor Iron Works, with about three thousand acres of land, came to him from his father David. This estate he continued to own during his life, and largely increased, so that at the time of his death his landed estate was appraised at $114,000, a large fortune in those days. Besides which there was much personal property. He was a man of public spirit, served in the Pennsylvania Assembly and was afterwards (1807-1811) an influential member of Congress, representing the Lancaster district, then one of the most important in the country.

His wife, Catherine, was a woman of rare culture, and decided Christian character. Her father, Rev. John Carmichael, was a greatly beloved and honored minister, and an active patriot in the trying days of the Revolution.

Four of the daughters of Robert and Catherine Jenkins married ministers. A memorial volume written by her pastor was published after the decease of Catherine M. Jenkins, and widely distributed among the family relatives. This was a model Christian family.

The first two born at Kickapoo, Ill., the others all at El Paso, where the family has resided since 1857.

Isaac M. Jenkins, with his two brothers, William and Robert, came to Illinois from Pennsylvania in 1836. They took up land along the Kickapoo, adjoining the grounds of Jubilee College, which was their post office address in the early days of Bishop Chase. In 1853 they removed to the town of Kickapoo, where they kept a store. In 1857 they again removed to El Paso and opened the first store in that place. The building still stands (1900). Isaac and William were partners in the store. William was the first postmaster there. Robert was by trade a carpenter. The family has been one of the most prominent in that locality since the first settlement there.

NOTE.—Isaac Jenkin Jenkins, the fourth child, was postmaster of El Paso 1892-1896, is a man of large means and a leading citizen in that community.

Abraham Lincoln was the son of James and Elizabeth J. Lincoln, and was born near Churchtown, July 12, 1812, died at Whitehall in same locality, February 11, 1900. One of his ancestors, it is said, was a brother of John Lincoln, who removed to Virginia about 1765, and was grandfather of the martyr President.

PART II.

MATERNAL ANCESTORS OF THE CHILDREN OF ROBERT JENKINS OF CLARK COUNTY, MISSOURI.

Rambo Ancestors.

- I—PETER GUNNARSON RAMBO— ———.
- II—GUNNAR RAMBO—ANNA COCK.
- III—GABRIEL RAMBO— ———.
- IV—MATTHIAS RAMBO—JANE —.
- V—EZEKIEL RAMBO—ELIZABETH MATSON.
- VI—JOSEPH RAMBO—HULDAH MORRIS.
- VII—ROBERT JENKINS—ELIZABETH RAMBO.

I—PETER GUNNARSON RAMBO.

Peter Gunnarson Rambo, born in Gottenberg, Sweden, about 1605, died in Philadelphia, 1698. He came to America with Minuit in 1638, settled on the Delaware, was an important figure in the government of New Sweden until the conquest of that Province by the Dutch, was one of the two deputies sent to Peter Stuyvesant to answer his demand for surrender. He was also an official under the Dutch regime, and when the colony, along with New Amsterdam, passed to the Duke of York, he was a member of the Council of Captain Carr, the Governor. In 1674 he was a Justice of the Peace, and one of the first to sit in the historic Upland Court. He held other offices previous to, and subsequently under William Penn when he became the Proprietor of Pennsylvania. He was friendly to and popular with the Indians, and often acted as official interpreter between them and the English. He and his family were well known to William Penn, and are referred to in Penn's correspondence in 1684 and later.

His will is dated August 30, 1694, and was proved in Philadelphia, November 19, 1698. The name of his wife is not known. He left a large number of descendants. Some of his children were: Gunnar, born about 1649; Peter, Andrew, John, born 1661, and Catherine, who married Peter Matson. He owned different tracts of land at different periods. He was one of the founders, and a staunch supporter of Christian institutions along the Delaware, and was for many years a warden of the celebrated Old Swede's Church in Philadelphia. The worship of this church was Episcopalian in form, and it later became one of the recognized members of the local diocese.

Pa. Mag. 2, 333, 335; 3, 94, 402; 8, 151, 156—Annals of the Swedes by J. C. Clay, 167; Bean's Hist. Montgomery Co., 127; Pa. Archives 19, 349; Hazard's Annals 447, 463.

Bible names are exceedingly common among his descendants, and the Rambo name is closely interwoven with church history among that people through succeeding generations.

He had a sister living in Gottenberg in 1692—(Annals of the Swedes, 40.)

He antedated William Penn on the Delaware more than forty years.

II—GUNNAR RAMBO—ANNA COCK.

Gunnar Rambo, born on the Delaware in New Sweden in 1649, married Anna, daughter of Peter Larson Cock, died in 1724, buried in churchyard of Old Swede's Church. He was a large land owner, was a member of the first grand jury under William Penn's government, and in 1685 was a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly; was on the first tax list of Philadelphia. He removed to Upper Merion about 1712.

CHILDREN :—Peter, John, Gunnar, Mounce, Gabriel, Andrew, Matthias, Elias.

(Pa. Mag. 2, 226, 341; 3, 94; 8, 96);

(Pa. Archives 19, 476);

(Watson's Annals 2, 298.)

Peter Rambo, son of John, born 1694, married Christine Keen.

COCK ANCESTORS—Peter Larson Cock, father of Anna, was born in Sweden in 1611, came to New Sweden in 1641, (Pa. Mag. 3, 94, 464), died 1688. He was one of the foremost men in the settlement, held many offices, was a large land owner. He had six sons and as many daughters. Among these were the said Anna, Captain Lawrence, Brita, who married John Rambo, brother of Gunnar. The name was also spelled Kock, and among his very numerous descendants came to be anglicized into Cox. Pa. Mag., vol. 3, p. 94; Hazard's Annals, p. 394. It is very evident from the history of that early period, that Peter Gunnarson Rambo and Peter Larson Cock were two of the principal and best men in the settlement, and hence they were often together on official boards and committees.

III—GABRIEL RAMBO.

Gabriel Rambo, born in Philadelphia, 1688, name of wife not known. He lived in Upper Merion.

Left children: Matthias, Gabriel, Andrew, Christian (daughter) and Martha. These two daughters married, respectively, Jacob and Moses Cox (brothers).

IV—MATTHIAS RAMBO—JANE ———.

Matthias Rambo, born 1716 in Upper Merion, died October 10, 1782. His eldest son was Ezekiel.

The foregoing line of descent is established by the recitals in a deed from Matthias Rambo and Jane, his wife, to his son, Ezekiel. This deed, dated January 1, 1773, is of record in Recorder's office for Montgomery County at Norristown, in Book 4, p. 202. It recites that Gunnar Rambo, grandfather of said Matthias, granted and sold to his son, Gabriel, "father of said Matthias," certain lands, and that these are now in consideration of good will and parental affection conveyed to their son, Ezekiel.

V.—EZEKIEL RAMBO—ELIZABETH MATSON.

Ezekiel Rambo, born in Upper Merion, married Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Matson. Ezekiel Rambo, like his ancestors, was a good, substantial, well-to-do citizen. The fact that land continued in the family through so many generations indicates their prudence and thrift. He was probably a member of the Baptist Church. His body was buried in the Baptist cemetery about ten miles from Christina, Pa.

He was a soldier in the Revolution, a private in Captain Amos Sturges' Company, First Battalion Philadelphia Militia (I Pa. Associates and Militia, 719). Upper Merion was then in Philadelphia County. There were three other Rambos in that company. The Sturges family resided in the same neighborhood.

CHILDREN.

John, born 1778.

Joseph, born July, 21, 1779.

Nathan, born 1781.

Anna, born 1783.

Elizabeth, born 1785.

Ezekiel.

Peter.

Matson Ancestors.

Peter Matson, father of Elizabeth, was of the well known family, which gave name to Matson's Ford across the Schuylkill. He died 1778, leaving eight children and a large estate. He was probably descended from Peter Matson, who married Catherine Rambo, (No. 1.)

In the History of Montgomery County, by Theodore W. Bean, p. 126, it is stated: "Nils Matson was a native of Sweden and very probably the ancestor of John Matson, mentioned in the list in 1693. The latter is represented at that date as having eleven persons in his family. One of the same name, who was probably a son, is represented as having moved into Upper Merion on a large tract of land adjoining Lower Merion. As the country became settled a ford was established here and thus received the name of Matson's Ford. During the Revolution the American army crossed several times at this place. It was then owned by Peter Matson, and on his death the land was divided among his sons, leaving each a farm."

VI—JOSEPH RAMBO—HULDAH MORRIS.

Joseph Rambo, born July 21, 1779, died July 23, 1850, buried in Reading cemetery, married Huldah Morris, daughter of William Morris. The Morrisses were English Quakers (see Morris ancestors). He was by trade a blacksmith. Children of this marriage: (1) Morris, born December 14, 1809, who resided at Reading, Pa., most of his life, died in New York City, July 29, 1894, leaving many descendants. His daughter, Huldah, married John F. Boyer of Reading, died November 10, 1895, leaving a large family of children and grandchildren. (2) William G., died, unmarried. (3) Elizabeth, born February 26, 1813.

Huldah (Morris) Rambo, died in Philadelphia, 1815, and Joseph, married, second, Elizabeth Sturd and left a number of children, among whom were Sarah, who married William James McKim; Thomas, Joseph, Morgan, Isaiah, Hanas and George W. Mrs. Sarah McKim died January 11, 1902, at Christiana, Pa., aged 83.

VII—ROBERT JENKINS—ELIZABETH RAMBO.

Robert Jenkins, born February 11, 1816, married Elizabeth Rambo March 30, 1837, in Chester County, Pennsylvania. She died October 11, 1846. They removed soon after marriage to Clark County, Missouri, where both resided until their decease. (See Jenkins Genealogy.)

Descendants of Morris Rambo.

Morris Rambo, first son of Joseph and Huldah (Morris) Rambo, married Barbara Ann Wunder, resided at Reading, Pa.

CHILDREN.

(1) Joseph; (2) William G. (3) Howard; (4) Alexander H.; (5) John; (6) Huldah; and (7) Elizabeth.

- (10) Laura Virginia Boyer, born April 21, 1872; married, Dec. 22, 1898, George William Sargent. They reside in Reading, and have one daughter living.
- (11) Blanche Boyer, born March 10, 1877; married, April, 1901, Charles Williams. There were, also, John, Belle and Charles Robert, who died in infancy.

As history has been so often silent, the following is appended concerning

NEW SWEDEN AND ITS PEOPLE.

It has been said that geographers and historians, "while they had been very particular in detailing the circumstances connected with the arrival and settlement of the English on the James River, and of the Pilgrims in New England, had scarcely mentioned that there was ever such a colony as the Swedes on the Delaware."

There is so much truth in this charge, that people generally regard William Penn and his colonists as the first settlers of Pennsylvania. But the Swedes had been there for forty years before Penn came. Gustavus Adolphus, Sweden's greatest king, and one of the greatest of all time and all nations, cherished the purpose and took measures to found a colony in the New World. Under his inspiration, a commercial company was incorporated in 1626, with its headquarters at Gottenberg. Says Bancroft, the projectors declared: "Other nations employed slaves in their colonies; and slaves cost a great deal, labor with reluctance, and soon perish from hard usage; the Swedish nation is laborious and intelligent, and surely we shall gain more by a free people with wives and children."

Sweden was then one of the most powerful nations of Europe. Gustavus kept the enterprise well in mind and warmly commended it to the people of Germany only a few days before his death in the battle of Lutzen, "in which Protestantism won a most signal victory, but its immortal leader was killed." Oxensteirn, the distinguished Chancellor of Adolphus, "took up the idea of the American colony, and continued to earnestly promote the enterprise, and to him is due the first permanent colonization on the banks of the Delaware." The expedition thus encouraged, sailed from Gottenberg late in 1637, under Peter Minuit, and landed on the Delaware early in the spring of 1638. It comprised a clergyman and about fifty settlers. They purchased land from the Indians extending along the river as far up as the falls where Trenton is now situated. Thus New Sweden began. Others came in 1641, and from time to time, although the total number never reached more than one thousand. The settlement prospered under successive Swedish governors, the Indians were treated justly, and there was continual peace. The colonists were sober, honest, industrious, religious.

But this portion of America was claimed by the Dutch, and was known as the South River Country, in contradistinction to that of the North River at New Amsterdam. Sweden had been unfortunate in her European wars—was not able to defend the colony, and as a final result an expedition came in overwhelming force under Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch Governor at the mouth of the Hudson, which forced the surrender of the Swedes in September, 1655. This changed the government of the colony, but not its population. Again in 1664, when the English made conquest of New Amsterdam, this Swedish settlement passed under new sovereignty, and its people became the loyal and dutiful supporters of the Duke of York, and of Robert Carr, Governor of the South River Country.

In 1681 William Penn received his grant, and in 1682 he made his first visit to Pennsylvania. Until that time there had been but few white people, except the Swedes, in all the wide expanse of his new province. After his coming, the Swedish settlers continued to be among the best of his colonists, and to merit his warm interest and friendship. He wrote from London in 1684 to the President of the Council: "Salute me to the Swedes, Captain Cock, Old Peter Cock, and Rambo * * * and their sons." * * * "I must need commend the Swede's respect to authority, and their kind behavior to the English. * * * As they are a people proper and strong of body, so they have fine children, and almost every house full." * * *

"I see few young men more sober and industrious."

Thus, with this worthy, religious people for its first citizens, the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania was founded. A writer upon old Philadelphia in Harper's Monthly for April, 1876, says: "There the Swansons, Keens, Bengstens, Kocks, and Rambos lived." "The Swedes and Friends did not like the Puritans shake the forests with their hymns of lofty cheer, nor din the ears of succeeding generations with tales of the persecutions from which they fled, but they quietly made their little village (Philadelphia) the only home of religious liberty then in the New World."

Bancroft estimated that the descendants of these original settlers amounted to about one in two hundred of the population of our country, and concerning the original colony says:

"They cherished the calm earnestness of religious feeling; they revered the bonds of family, and the purity of morals; their children under every disadvantage of want of teachers and of Swedish books, were well instructed. A love for Sweden, their dear mother country and the abiding sentiment of loyalty towards its sovereign, continued to distinguish the little band; at Stockholm they remained for a century the objects of a disinterested and generous regard; affection united them in the New World, and a part of their descendants still preserve their altars and their dwellings around the graves of their fathers.”

Bancroft's U. S., vol. 2, 288, 298, etc.

Annals of the Swedes.

Bean's History Montgomery Co., etc.

March 30, 1903, there was dedicated in the city of Wilmington, Del., a granite monument to mark the first permanent landing place on the Delaware of the Swedes who came with Minuit. The stone bears the following inscription: “This stone is a portion of the rocks on which the first Swedish colonists in America landed March 29, 1638. On this spot stood Fort Christiana. Here were held the first civil court, and in the chapel of the fort the Swedes celebrated the Christian worship in the New World. Erected by the Delaware Society of Colonial Dames March 29, 1903.” The dedication services were held on the 30th because the 29th was Sunday. Full accounts were published in the Wilmington Morning News. This landing place is located in the city of Wilmington, and the precise date of the great historic event was only recently discovered in an old document in Sweden. Here was the first beginning of the three States of Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey. The scholarly address of the occasion was made by the Chief Justice of the Delaware Supreme Court, Charles B. Lore. Among other things, he said:

“The first colonists in 1638 consisted almost entirely of Swedes and Finns, comprising farmers, traders, mechanics and soldiers."

"The New World received no better people than the Swedes and Finns on the Delaware."

"It is remarkable that during the whole period of the Swedish dominion * * * there is no evidence that a single human being lost his life in hostile contest."

"The conduct of the Swedish colonists toward the Indians bordering on their settlement, was not only consonant with the requirements of truth and justice, but with the dictates of a sound and enlightened policy as was found by happy experience. Their honesty, their kindness, their friendly deportment, disposed the Indians to peace. * * * The maintenance of such an intercourse so won their affection that they used to call the Swedes "their own people."

"Companius, speaking of the natives, says: "They are very courteous in their behavior and fond of obliging the Swedes. They take great pains to help them, and to prevent any harm happening to them. In this happy state the colonists found a rich reward for their kind and noble conduct toward the poor unlettered natives. Instead of a life of tenor and alarm—of war and all its horrors—the honest Swede could eat his bread in peace, and after the toils of the day, lay down his head in quietness, fearless of a midnight attack; undisturbed by dreams of the tomahawk and scalping knife."

“While in extent and population it was the least of any of the colonies; yet in the scope, liberality and humanity of its design, New Sweden stood at the head of the American colonies.”

With an experience of forty years among white men of such honesty and uprightness, it can be well understood why William Penn found the Indians so kindly disposed when he arrived, and experienced no difficulty in continuing the same policy of justice and honor during his administration.

Morris Ancestors.

I—THOMAS MORRIS—JANET ———.

Thomas Morris, first settled in Byberry within the present limits of Philadelphia before 1700. The family were English Friends. In 1706 he bought of Nicholas More 105 acres in Moreland and removed there. In the deed he is designated as of Philadelphia County. In 1721 he removed to Hilltown, Bucks County, Pa., where he bought 300 acres. In his will, dated August 25, 1743, he says he is “aged and weak in body.” He died 1747. His wife, Janet, survived him.

CHILDREN.

Cadwallader, Thomas, Isaac.

II—CADWALLADER MORRIS—ELIZABETH MORGAN.

Cadwallader Morris, probably born in England, supposed to have lived successively at Byberry, Moreland, Gwynedd and Hilltown, married, 1710, Elizabeth Morgan, probably of Gwynedd. No record of his children other than Morris.

III—MORRIS MORRIS—GWENTHLEEN THOMAS.

Morris Morris, born 1712, died 1767, married, 1736, Gwenthleen Thomas, who was born 1716 and died 1785. She was daughter of Rev. William Thomas, and was a woman of great force of character. They resided at Hilltown, owned considerable land, and were well to do, as was usually the case with the Morrises. Her beautiful Welsh name had several contractions, and she is mentioned as Gwellian, Gwently, and plain Gwen.

CHILDREN.

Cadwallader, Abraham, William, born 1739; Benjamin, Enoch, Joseph and Morris.

IV—WILLIAM MORRIS—ANN GRIFFITH.

William Morris, born 1739, died April 21, 1821, aged 82, married, 1763, Ann Griffith, born 1744, died July 17, 1821, aged 77. (See Griffith ancestors). First lived at Hilltown and at New Brittain, removed to Chester County 1794, returned to Bucks County and died at residence of his son, Isaac, at Line Lexington. He was a member of Captain Henry Darrah's Company in regiment of Buck's County Militia, commanded by Colonel William Roberts; Pa. Associators & Militia, 14 Pa. Archives, Sec. Ser., vol. 2, pp. 193 and 194.

CHILDREN.

Isaac, Benjamin, Morris, Eliam, William, Griffith, Ann, Elizabeth and Huldah. Elizabeth married George Philips.

Their grandson, George Morris Philips, is Principal of State Normal School at West Chester, Pa.

V—HULDAH MORRIS—JOSEPH RAMBO. This is identical with No. VI Rambo Ancestors.

Isaac Morris, son of No. IV, by his first wife, Elizabeth Matthias, had a son, Matthias Morris, born September 12, 1787, who was a lawyer of ability, twice a member of Pennsylvania State Senate, and a member of Congress, 1834-1838. His daughter, Mary Ann, married John C. Lyman, of Northampton, Mass.

The same Isaac Morris by his second wife, Rachel Dungan, widow of Joseph Dungan, formerly Rachel Mathews, daughter of Benjamin Mathews, had a son, Burgess Alison who married Mary Raile. Their son, Oliver G. Morris, resides at Line Lexington, Bucks County, was a member of Pennsylvania Assembly, 1871-1873, has three children, Charles E., William Norman and Mary.

Thomas Ancestors.

I—REV. WILLIAM THOMAS—ANN GRIFFITH.

Rev. William Thomas, yeoman and Baptist minister, father of Gwenthleen, who married Morris Morris, born 1678 at Llanwenarth, Monmouthshire, Wales, died in Hilltown, 1757, aged 79. His wife, Ann Griffith, born 1680. They came to America 1712, were at Radnor 1713, and subsequently at Hilltown. Was a man of marked ability and prominence. He became wealthy, and was a noted preacher in his locality. In 1737 he erected a stone church at his own expense, and here and elsewhere he preached for many years.

CHILDREN.

Thomas, John, Ephraim, Mannasseh, William, Gwenthleen and Anna.

The epitaph upon his tomb yet standing, believed to have been written by himself is unique:

"In yonder meeting-house I spent my breath,
Now silent, mouldering here, I lie in death;
These silent lips shall wake, and yet declare
A dread amen to truths they published there."

In his will he gave the church he had built and the churchyard of four acres adjoining to the people of Hilltown, and distributed a large estate among his children.

II—GWENTHLEEN THOMAS—MORRIS MORRIS. This is identical with No. III Morris Ancestors.

Griffith Ancestors.

I—HOWELL GRIFFITH.

Howell Griffith, it is stated in the History of the Thomas Family, lived in Pembrokeshire, Wales. Nothing more is known of him, except that he had a son

II—EVAN GRIFFITH—SARAH COFFIN.

Evan Griffith emigrated from Wales, born about 1680, died 1758. In 1704 settled in Montgomery Township. In 1726 removed to Hilltown, where he owned a large farm, which he willed to his son, Nathaniel, (No. III). Was three times married. The first wife, name unknown, died leaving no children. He married, second, Sarah Coffin of an English family about 1730.

CHILDREN.

Nathaniel, Jacob, John, Sarah.

His wife died, and he married, third, Mary James.

CHILDREN.

Abraham, Isaac, Howell, Elizabeth and Catherine.

III—NATHANIEL GRIFFITH—ELIZABETH DAVIS.

Nathaniel Griffith, died 1790, married Elizabeth Davis, who was probably of Montgomery County.

Lived on the farm, which came to him from his father. Was one of the executors of Rev. Wm. Thomas, and designated in the will as "Eldest son of Evan Griffith."

CHILDREN.

Benjamin, Daniel, Ann and Sarah.

IV—WILLIAM MORRIS—ANN GRIFFITH. This is identical with No. IV of Morris ancestors.

Hamilton Jenkins Ancestors.

I—WILLIAM HAMILTON—JANE HUSTON (?).

II—CAPTAIN JAMES HAMILTON—CATHERINE CARRIGAN.

III—CATHERINE HAMILTON—GEORGE JENKINS

IV—ROBERT JENKINS—ELIZABETH RAMBO.

I—WILLIAM HAMILTON—JANE HUSTON (?).

William Hamilton, born 1712, died June 11, 1794, aged 82. Lived in Salisbury township, Lancaster Co., Pa., and died there. He married Jane Huston (?) who was born 1713 and died Aug. 30, 1784, aged 71. He owned and occupied the farm where he died more than fifty years. Was Justice of the Peace 1761-1764. He had a daughter who married Col. John Boyd, and a son, James, next below.

II—CAPTAIN JAMES HAMILTON—CATHERINE CARRIGAN.

James Hamilton, son of William, born March 24, 1743, died 1815, aged 72. Buried in Pequea churchyard (Presbyterian.) He was an extensive land owner, owned and kept the "Bull's Head" tavern for many years.

He married first, Feb. 24, 1769, Catherine Carrigan, daughter of Patrick Carrigan.

CHILDREN.

(1) One not named, born May 3, died May 20, 1770; (2) William, born April 30, died May 7, 1771; (3) Patrick, born March 1, died March 13, 1772; (4) Margaret, born May 16, 1773; (5) Jane, born Dec. 5, 1774. She married James Cochran, and 2d, Samuel Tate; (6) James, born Oct. 27, 1776; (7) William, born Feb. 21, 1779, died young; (8) Patrick, born Aug. 10, 1781; (9) Catherine, born May 24, 1783.

Catherine (Carrigan) Hamilton, mother of the foregoing died 1787, and Captain James Hamilton married second, Dec. 2, 1788, Margaret Boyd, daughter of George Boyd.

CHILDREN.

(10) Mary, born Feb. 5, 1790; married, May, 1816, Col. John Clark; (11) Thomas D., born Sept. 28, 1791; (12) William, born Sept. 27, 1795; and (13) George B., born Jan. 5, 1798.

There were three Williams and two Patricks.

Of the second marriage of Jane (No. 5) with Samuel Tate there were three children, Col. Joseph W. Tate, who lived at Bedford, Pa., Jane, who married her cousin, Dr. James Tate, and Samuel Hamilton Tate, now deceased, leaving one son, Humphrey D. Tate, a lawyer in Philadelphia, (1899).

Mary (No. 10) left a son, James Brice Clark, who married Catherine Bladen of Philadelphia. Their daughter, Miss Martha Bladen Clark, now resides in Lancaster, Pa., another daughter Elizabeth, married T. B. Marshall and resided in Sidney, O., (1893.)

III—CATHERINE HAMILTON—GEORGE JENKINS.

Catherine Hamilton married Aug. 21, 1800, George Jenkins of Chester Co., Pa.

For continuation, see Jenkins' Genealogy.

Note.—At the same time William Hamilton (No. 1) was living in Salisbury township, another William Hamilton resided in the adjoining township of Leacock. He died in 1782 and left a large family, among whom was a Col. James Hamilton, a Revolutionary soldier, and the founder of a distinguished family in South Carolina. It is supposed the two Williams were cousins, but the relationship has not yet been established.

James Hamilton, No. 11, was a soldier in the Army of the Revolution, a private in Captain John Roland's company of Militia, associated in Leacock Township, July 5th, 1775, and attached to Col. John Ferree's battalion. (See Everts & Pecks History of Lancaster County, Pa., p. 923.)

Col. John Ferree commanded the 10th Rifle Battalion (see same book, pp. 51 and 53 show active service of Captain Roland's Company). This battalion was in active service in 1775 and 1776. A portion was ordered to guard prisoners at Lancaster, another portion served on a tour of duty at Trenton and through New Jersey, Vol. X, Colonial Records, old edition, pp. 686, 690, 692 and 699.

Captain John Roland and James Hamilton at this time resided near Mill Creek in the western part of Leacock Township.

In 1777 nine battalions were organized and embodied in Lancaster County. Every one of them performed a tour of duty which lasted about three months. They were not, however, called out at one and the same time. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd were at Brandywine, 5th, 6th and 7th were at Trenton and in New Jersey. Cols. Grubb's, Thomas', Edwards', Huber's, and Jenkins' Battalions were in active service. A portion went with Cols. Hartley and Hubley to Northern part of State and with Sullivan. (See Hartley & Hubley's Journal in Colonial Record).

Captains Feathers and Isaac Adam's Companies went to Western part of State under Broadhead. (See Colonial Records.)

Major John Boyd, of Salisbury became commander of 7th Battalion of Lancaster Co. Militia in 1777. (See Mombert's History of Lancaster County, page 312.) His 3rd Captain was John Rowland, whose 1st Lieutenant was James Hamilton. The date of 1st Lieutenant Hamilton's commission is December 8th, 1777, now in possession of his great-granddaughter, Miss Martha B. Clark, of Lancaster City, Pa. Subsequently he was promoted to Captain in said Battalion.

Col. Boyd's battalion was called into service in 1778-1779.

Carrigan Ancestors.

I—PATRICK CARRIGAN—MARGARET DOUGLAS.

Patrick Carrigan resided in Lampeter township on Pequea Creek, Lancaster County, Pa. He married Oct., 1747, Margaret Douglas, daughter of Archibald Douglas. Archibald Douglas was a brother of Andrew Douglas, also a Jenkins ancestor in another line. Patrick Carrigan died Oct. 15, 1756, leaving a large estate, including seven hundred acres of land.

Patrick Carrigan was perhaps a founder, at least a member and supporter of St. James Episcopal Church.

CHILDREN.

Jeane, born June 30, 1750; married, 1st, Wm. Stevenson, and 2d, Jonathan Coats; Catherine, born June 26, 1753; married, Feb. 24, 1769, James Hamilton, died, Sept. 11, 1787; and Patrick, born Aug. 24, 1755, died June 5, 1779. The first child was baptized in Trinity Lutheran Church, Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 3, 1750.

After his decease, Margaret Carrigan married John Wilson.

II—CATHERINE CARRIGAN—JAMES HAMILTON. Identical with No. II Hamilton-Jenkins Ancestors.

III—CATHERINE HAMILTON—GEORGE JENKINS. Identical with No. III, Hamilton-Jenkins Ancestors.

Douglas Ancestors.

I—ANDREW DOUGLAS—JANE ROSS.

I—ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS—JEAN ———

Four brothers, Archibald, Andrew, James, and Thomas Douglas and two sisters, whose names are unknown, came from Scotland to America about 1720. They settled in Lancaster and Chester Counties, Pa. They gave the land and built St. John's Episcopal Church in Pequea Valley, and in this church yard their bodies were all buried. Thomas never married. James left at least one son, Edward.

It is stated on tombstones that they were sons of Lord Douglas. This has not been explained.

Andrew, born 1702, died Jan. 20, 1742, married Jane Ross, who was born 1704, died Jan. 24, 1742.

Her tombstone says she was daughter of Earl Ross. This also has not been explained.

CHILDREN.

Among others, George, born March 25, 1726, died March 10, 1799; Mary, born 1734, died Feb. 14, 1807; married John Elliott.

Archibald born 1695, died Nov. 25, 1756. Name of wife was Jean ———.

CHILDREN.

Thomas, born 1722; married, Aug. 4, 1762, Joyce Hudson; John, Archibald, George, Mary, married George Boyd; Jane, married Gabriel Davis; Margaret, born 1730, married Patrick Carrigan, died April 6, 1786; Ann, who married Caldwell.

II—GEORGE DOUGLAS—MARY PIERSOL.

II—MARGARET DOUGLAS—PATRICK CARRIGAN.

(See Carrigan ancestors.)

George Douglas, son of Andrew, born March 25, 1726, died March 10, 1779, married April 25, 1747, Mary Piersol. In 1761 he settled in Amity township where he lived until his death. He was a Justice of the Peace before 1770.

CHILDREN.

Richard, born Nov. 25, 1748; Elizabeth, born Jan. 25, 1750, married John Jenkins (see Jenkins Genealogy); Jane, born June 7, 1752; died young; Mary, born Sept. 23, 1754, married Richard Graham; Rebecca, born Feb. 13, 1757, married Mordecai Piersol; Bridget, married James May, and her daughter married General Keim of Reading, Pa.; Andrew, born

June 16, 1762, married Rachel Morgan; and George, born Feb. 14, 1767, married Mary Tea.

Mary Piersol was born at Rebecca Furnace, Aug. 23, 1771, died Oct. 12, 1798.

III—ELIZABETH DOUGLAS—JOHN JENKINS.

III—CATHERINE CARRIGAN—JAMES HAMILTON.

(See Hamilton Ancestors.)

Elizabeth Douglas married Oct. 30, 1770, John Jenkins of Caernarvon, Lancaster County, Pa. He died March 7, 1810, aged 78, and she died April 4, 1825, aged 75.

CHILDREN.

Mary, born July 28, 1774, married Peter Trego; George, born August 30, 1776; William, born June 27, 1778; John, born Sept. 8, 1780; Rebecca, born Oct. 10, 1782, married Thomas Morgan and settled in Venango County, Pennsylvania; Andrew, born Oct. 25, 1785, died young; Elizabeth, born Nov. 15, 1787, married Isaac McCalmont; Hannah, born Feb. 15, 1790, died young.

IV.—GEORGE JENKINS—CATHERINE HAMILTON.

George Jenkins, son of John and Elizabeth Jenkins, married Aug. 21, 1800, Catherine Hamilton, daughter of James and Catherine Hamilton.

(See Jenkins Genealogy.)

NOTE.—Andrew Douglas was Commissioner of Lancaster Co. in 1740.

George Douglas, of Amity township, Berks Co.,

Pa., was a Captain in Lötz Battalion for the Flying Camp, and was engaged in the disastrous battle of Long Island.

He was also one of the County Judges for Berks Co., 1764 to 1784, and was one of the commissioners chosen by Congress in 1776 to sign continental bills of credit.

See Montgomery's History of Berks Co. in the Revolution, 1874, pp. 197, 220. See Statement of American Genealogical Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Officers of Berks County, by Lawrence Getz.

Piersol Ancestors.

The Piersols were one of the more prominent early families of Chester and Lancaster counties. There were several intermarriages with members of the Douglas family.

I—RICHARD PIERSOL—BRIDGET ———.

The will of Richard Piersol of Westmoreland, Chester Co., Pa., dated May 7, 1753, was proved May 24, 1753, mentions his wife Bridget, son Richard, daughters, Rachel, Elizabeth, Martha and Mary. The will of Bridget Piersol, wife of above was proved Oct. 15, 1763 mentions daughters Rachel Morgan, Elizabeth Davis, Martha Hunter and Mary Douglas.

The Piersols were of Welsh extraction and were in Chester County as early as 1719. This Richard was probably a son of the original emigrant.

II—MARY PIERSOL—GEORGE DOUGLAS. This is identical with No. II. Douglas Ancestors.

Rush Ancestors.

I—CAPTAIN JOHN RUSH—SUSANNA LUCAS.

II—WILLIAM RUSH— ———

III—AURELIA SARAH RUSH—DAVID MEREDITH.

IV—REBECCA MEREDITH—JOHN JENKINS.

V—JOHN JENKINS—ELIZABETH DOUGLAS.

VI—GEORGE JENKINS—CATHERINE HAMILTON.

VII—ROBERT JENKINS—ELIZABETH RAMBO

(See Pa. Mag., vol. 17, p. 325-335.)

I—CAPTAIN JOHN RUSH—SUSANNA LUCAS.

John Rush commanded a troop of horse in Cromwell's army. At the close of the war he married Susanna Lucas at Hoenton in Oxfordshire, June 8, 1648. She was born about 1627. He embraced the principles of the Quakers in 1660 and came to Pennsylvania in, or before, 1683, with seven children and several grandchildren. Settled at Byberry, now within the limits of Philadelphia. In 1691 he and his whole family became Keithians, and in 1697 most of them became Baptists. He died at Byberry in 1699. The record of his children in his own handwriting was in possession of Dr. Benjamin Rush in 1800. His sword and watch are now in the old State House in Philadelphia.

CHILDREN.

(1) Elizabeth, born June 16, 1649; (2) William, born July 21, 1652; (3) Thomas, born Nov. 7, 1654, died young; (4) Susanna, born Dec. 26, 1656; (5) John, born March 1, 1660; (6) Francis, born Feb. 8, 1662; (7) James, born July 21, 1664, died young; (8) Joseph, born Oct. 26, 1666; (9) Edward, born Sept. 27, 1670; (10) Jane, born Dec. 27, 1673-4.

II—WILLIAM RUSH— ———.

William Rush was twice married, names of both wives unknown, but given name of first supposed to have been Aurelia. He died at Byberry in 1688.

CHILDREN.

(1) Susanna; (2) James, married Rachel Peart; (3) Elizabeth; (4) Aurelia Sarah; (5) William, married Elizabeth Hodges.

III—AURELIA SARAH RUSH—DAVID MEREDITH.

Aurelia, also called Sarah Rush, married David Meredith, Jan. 3, 1704-5. They resided in Whiteland Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, where David died in 1754. She died Jan. 14, 1770, aged about eighty-six, and leaving about one hundred descendants. There is much uncertainty as to the age of Sarah Meredith. The Pennsylvania Chronicle of Jan. 29, 1770, in announcing her death stated that she was "aged 90 years." An old family record states she was "the first female child of English parentage born in Philadelphia." These statements may be erroneous.

CHILDREN.

(1) Susanna, married Hays; (2) David; (3) Rebecca, married John Jenkins; (4) William; (5) Rachel, married Connoly; (6) Joseph; (7) John; (8) Mary, married Bane; (9) Hannah, married Guest, and some others who died young.

Pa. Archives, 2nd series, vol. 8, p. 506.

The Chronicle announcement of Jan. 29, 1770, above referred to is as follows: "On Sunday the 14th of January, died Sarah Meredith, aged 90 years. She was born in a little log house, where the city of Philadelphia now stands (her maiden name was Rush), and there she lived until she arrived to woman's state when she was married to David Meredith, and soon after settled in the Great Valley, Chester County, about 28 miles from Philadelphia, then the western-most settlement in the Province, being six miles beyond any neighbors, except Indians, who were very numerous, kind and inoffensive. * * * She was mother of 11 children, grandmother of 66 and great-grandmother of 31, in all 108."

Pa. Mag., vol. 12, p. 376.

IV—REBECCA MEREDITH—JOHN JENKINS.

Rebecca Meredith, daughter of David, married about 1730 John Jenkins of Windsor. He was our great-great-grandfather. See his record, ante p. 16 Jenkins Genealogy. Rebecca (Meredith) Jenkins is described in letters from her descendant, Mrs. Martha Jenkins Nevin, late of Lancaster, Pa., as a woman of high spirit, with all the graces and accomplishments that belonged to the typical colonial dame. She was a fine horse woman, who could mount her steed without assistance by a single spring from the ground. John Jenkins was a man of large means in those days, and she presided over his home with becoming hospitality and dignity.

The Rush family has been one of the most promiment in the history of Philadelphia. Its most distinguished member was Dr. Benjamin Rush, born 1741, died 1813, physician, patriot and statesman. He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, exceedingly active in public life, an ideal citizen, and withal achieving and holding a place among the foremost doctors of medicine that America has ever produced. From him Rush Medical College of Chicago has its name. His relationship to our family is shown as follows:

(I) John Rush.

(II) William Rush.

(III) James Rush.

(III) Aurelia Sarah Rush.

(IV) John Rush.

(IV) Rebecca Meredith.

(V) Dr. Benjamin Rush. (V) John Jenkins.

For continuation see ante-Jenkins Genealogy.

Meredith Ancestors.

I—DAVID MEREDITH, yeoman, resided in Whiteland Township, Pennsylvania, as early as 1715, was probably born in Wales, but the time of his immigration is unknown. He died in 1754. Married Aurelia Sarah Rush, as already stated, and names of children given.

His will, dated April 20, 1754, mentions his wife Sarah and his daughter, "Rebecca Jenkin." He left a farm to his sons, William and John, and personal estate to his widow and children.

His descendants have been very numerous and widely scattered. Some of them have attained distinction.

II—REBECCA MEREDITH—JOHN JENKINS. See
No. IV. Rush Ancestors.

PART III.

ANCESTORS OF MARCIA (RAYMOND) JENKINS

Raymond Ancestors.

- I—RICHARD RAYMOND—JUDITH ———.
- II—JOHN RAYMOND—MARY BETTS.
- III—SAMUEL RAYMOND—JUDITH PALMER.
- IV—SIMEON RAYMOND—HANNAH ———.
- V—WILLIAM RAYMOND—RUTH HOYT.
- VI—NATHAN HOYT RAYMOND—MARCIA KELLOGG.
- VII—EDWARD RAYMOND—MARY PUTNAM
HAMILTON.
- VIII—MARCIA RAYMOND—ROBERT E. JENKINS.

I—RICHARD RAYMOND—JUDITH ———.

Richard Raymond, Salem, Mass., mariner. Freeman May 14, 1634. In 1636 he received a grant of half an acre of land at Winter Island in Salem Harbor "for fishing trade and to build upon." He and Judith, his wife, were members of Salem church before 1634. (See Caulkin's Hist. New London, Conn., p. 292). In 1662 he purchased a house at Norwalk, Conn., removed there and engaged in the coasting trade with the English and Dutch on Manhattan Island. In 1664 he removed to Saybrook, where he died in 1692, aged about 90. He married Judith ———. His children were all baptized in the First Church, Salem, except John, the date of whose birth is not known. Richard Raymond by his will left all his estate to his son, John, the eldest of his children.

CHILDREN.

Samuel, John, Ephraim, Joshua, Mary, married John Brown; Simeon, born at "Old Well," Norwalk, Conn., 1711.

Samuel Raymond deeded land in 1733 and in 1738 to his son, Simeon; and under date of March 20, 1739-40, his children, Samuel, Joshua, Ephraim and Simeon Raymond, divided land left them in common by their father, Samuel Raymond. (Norwalk Rec., vol. 8, p. 253.)

IV.—SIMEON RAYMOND—HANNAH ———.

Simeon, son of Samuel, married Hannah ———. Was appointed by the General Assembly of Connecticut in October, 1760, Lieutenant of the Second Company or Train-band in Norwalk, in the Ninth Regiment.

In May, 1761, he was appointed by like authority Captain of said Company in said Regiment. See Records in office of Adjutant General at Hartford, Conn. In the history of Norwalk he is spoken of as soldier and patriot. He resigned said Captaincy and was active in the Revolution. His property was burned by Tories. He was allowed land for his losses. He died at Norwalk, July, 1795.

CHILDREN.

Hezekiah, Jedediah, Nathaniel, Uriah, William, born Jan. 11, 1747; Moses, Ruth, Aaron, Anna, Hannah.

V—WILLIAM RAYMOND—RUTH HOYT.

William, son of Simeon, married, Jan. 21, 1768, Ruth, daughter of Nathan Hoyt of Norwalk. He removed to Granville, N. Y., and died at Bethany Center, N. Y., Feb. 18, 1832. His wife died April 26, 1803, and he married, 2nd, Sarah Meech.

CHILDREN.

All by first wife: Annie, Elizabeth, William, died young; Ruth, William, Nathan, died young; Charlotte, Sarah, Frances, Polly, Nathan Hoyt, born Oct. 10, 1791.

VI—NATHAN HOYT RAYMOND—MARCIA KELLOGG.

Nathan Hoyt, son and youngest child of William married at Granville, May 7, 1812, Marcia Kellogg, born Feb. 7, 1793. He made several removals westward, finally settling at Cambridge City, Ind., where he died Aug. 6, 1874. His wife died Aug. 9, 1849, and he married, 2nd, Mrs. Elvira Lawrence. She died Nov. 27, 1883.

VII—EDWARD RAYMOND—MARY PUTNAM
HAMILTON.

Edward Raymond of Chicago, Ill., son of Nathan N., born February 5, 1816, died in Chicago December 18, 1886. He married, first, Mary Putnam Hamilton, who died March 4, 1879. He married, second, Mrs. Persis E. Belden, who is still living. No children by second marriage. Two children of first marriage, viz :

Amelia, born March 13, 1840. She married J. C. Richards, who died many years ago. Of this marriage there were two children :

- (1) Edward Raymond, who died leaving no surviving issue;

VIII. (2) Lucy Amelia, born January 24, 1862, who married October 9, 1895, Charles Webster Shippey of Chicago, where the family reside. Two children have been born of this marriage:

- IX. (1) Webster Batcheller Shippey, born October 26, 1896, and
(2) Raymonde Shippey, born December 27, 1898.

The other child of Edward Raymond was

- VIII. Marcia, who married Robert E. Jenkins of Chicago. For all data as to them and their children and grandchildren see ante Jenkins Genealogy.

There is a published Raymond Genealogy from which some facts noted have been gathered.

Edward Raymond resided for many years in Cambridge City, Ind., where he was a successful hardware merchant; later he lived in Chicago. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church for many years.

Shippey-Batcheller note: The Batcheller family in its various branches is one of the most numerous and best known in America. The original ancestors came early and their descendants have followed along the track of the pioneers and among the pioneers across the continent. The Batcheller Genealogy published in 1898 by Frederick Clifton Pierce is a large book of more than six hundred pages. The following outline has been taken principally from that publication, and parties interested may there find more complete details of the history of these and other Batchellers.

I—HON. JOSEPH BATCHELLER—ELIZABETH ———.

Honorable Joseph Batcheller, born in Canterbury, England, emigrated to America in 1636 with wife, "one child and three servants and brothers Henry and John." First settled at Salem, Mass., later at Wenham. Was deputy to the General Court in Boston in 1644. He and his wife were members of the church in Wenham. Is said in history of this town to have been "a prominent and useful man." He died in 1647, and his son, Mark, was appointed administrator of his estate.

CHILDREN.

Mark, John, Elizabeth and Hannah.

II—JOHN BATCHELLER—SARAH GOODALE.

John Batcheller, son of Joseph, born 1638, married, 1661, Mary Dennis, who died in 1665, and he married, second, Mary Goodale, daughter of Robert of Salem. He was one of the gang which tried the famous witchcraft cases. Died 1698. His widow, Sarah, died 1729.

CHILDREN.

Joseph, John, Mark, Elizabeth, Ebenezer, Hannah, Mary, Sarah, David.

III—DAVID BATCHELLER—SUSANNA WHIPPLE.

David Batcheller, son of John, born at Wenham 1673, married, 1709, Susanna Whipple. Was prominent member of the church there and held various town offices. Died 1766.

CHILDREN.

David, Susanna, Joseph, Amos, Nehemiah, Abraham and Mary.

IV—CAPTAIN ABRAHAM BATCHELLER—SARAH NEWTON.

Captain Abraham Batcheller, son of David, born at Wenham 1722, married Sarah Newton 1751, removed to Westboro and later to Sutton. He died 1813. He had large properties as did all the Batchellers in this line. Was an officer in the Selectmen and known as Captain.

CHILDREN.

Abraham, Abner, Vashti, Joseph, Benjamin, Ezra, Sarah, Amos.

V—EZRA BATCHELLER—MARY DAY.

Simonds Ancestors.

I—WILLIAM SIMONDS— ———.

William Simonds, of Charlestown, Mass., in 1639, and Woburn, Mass., in 1662. From England. Name of wife unknown.

II—JOSEPH SIMONDS—

Joseph Simonds, son of William, joined a company of Scotch-Irish people and went with them to Londonderry, N. H., in spring of 1719. Had a farm on the "English Range." Was also a mechanic and built and operated a saw-mill. Removed later to Ware River, Mass.

III—COL. BENJAMIN SIMONDS—MARY DAVIS.

Colonel Benjamin Simonds, born Feb. 23, 1726, died April 11, 1807. Probably born at Londonderry, N. H. Married, first, April 23, 1752, Mary Davis, at Northampton, Mass. She was born 1729 and died June 7, 1798. He married, second, Anna (Collins) Putnam, widow of Asa Putnam, deceased. Her daughter, Sylvia Putnam, born May 25, 1789, died Oct. 2, 1883, aged 94 years; married, 1811, Zane Alasman Hamilton, born April 25, 1784, died Dec. 5, 1863. Their daughter, Mary Putnam Hamilton, married Edward Raymond, as noted in No. VII next preceding.

Col. Simonds' children were all by first wife, viz:

- 1 Rachel, born April 8, 1753, married, (1) Thomas Train;
(2) Dea. Benj. Skinner.
- 2 Justin, born Feb. 17, 1755.
- 3 Sarah, born July 8, 1757, married Ithamar Clark.

- 4 Marcy, born Dec. 2, 1759, died April 15, 1834, married Charles Kellogg, and became one of the ancestors of Marcia (Raymond) Jenkins.
- 5 Joseph, born April 8, 1762.
- 6 Prudence, born Dec. 4, 1763, married Jonathan Bridges. She was grandmother of wife of Prof. Arthur Latham Perry of Williams College, Mass.
- 7 Albina, born Oct. 8, 1765, married, (1) Joseph Osborn; (2) Judah Paddock.
- 8 Electa, born 1768, married Thaddeus Edward.
- 9 Polly, born 1771, married Perley Putnam. Hon. James O. Putnam, late of Buffalo, N. Y., was grandson both of Polly (Simonds) Putnam and Albina Osborn.
- 10 Benjamin, born 1773, died June 16, 1786.

Col. Simonds had a most interesting and active career, both civil and military. He was a soldier in colonial wars, and also in the army of the Revolution. When only 19 years old, in 1745 during the old French war, he enlisted and was one of the defenders of Fort Massachusetts. The garrison only numbered twenty-two persons when the fort was attacked by an overwhelming French force sent from Crown Point. The place was captured and young Simonds taken prisoner and carried to Canada, where he was kept for a year. Williamstown, Mass., now covers the site of the old fort. Simonds afterwards, about 1750, purchased part of the ground included in the fortification and built his home and lived there the rest of his life, except when in active service during the Revolution. He commanded a regiment of Berkshire Militia in the War for Independence and fought in the battle of Bennington and many others.

After the war, during the remainder of his life he was one of the most useful and influential citizens of Williamstown. Both his wives are buried there.

See numerous statements regarding him and his life in "Origins in Williamstown," by Prof. Arthur Latham Perry, 1894.

IV—MARCY SIMONDS—CHARLES KELLOGG.

Marcy Simonds, married as above stated, in 1875, Charles Kellogg. About the time of his marriage he removed to Williamstown, where he resided for a number of years. Later his home was at Granville, New York.

IX—MARCIA RAYMOND—ROBERT E. JENKINS.

(See History of the Putnam Family, by Eben Putnam, 1891.)

The "History of the Putnam Family" contains a history of the family in England and America, and a chart showing the actual and supposed ancestors of John Putnam of Salem, now Danvers, Mass. The line of probable ancestry is traced and the names of ancestors given for sixteen generations in England to Simon de Puttenham, A. D. 1199. It is not proposed here to outline the details of this English ancestry. Parties interested are referred to the work mentioned. The history indicates that the family there was important, worthy and usually in well-to-do circumstances. Some members attained knighthood.

The American descendants of John Putnam have been very numerous. The most distinguished were Maj. General Israel Putnam and Maj. General Rufus Putnam of Revolutionary service. This brief sketch begins with

I—JOHN PUTNAM—PRISCILLA GOULD.

John Putnam of Ashton Abbotts, Bucks County, England; born there about 1580, died, Salem, Mass., Dec. 30, 1662, married Priscilla, probably Gould, in England. Emigrated and settled at Salem. The precise year of his emigration is an unsettled point. In the Putnam family history, it is said that tradition is responsible for the date, 1634. The author of that work cites a record of land exchanged in 1641 between John Putnam and one Skeltons, which described one hundred acres as having been "granted to said John Putnam formerly." That word formerly may cover a good many years.

In the history of Danvers, by Hansen, published in 1848, he says: "John Putnam came from Buckinghamshire, England, in 1629 with his three sons and owned a large portion of North Danvers"—says he owned Wenham woods, and mentions one Ray as owning land in 1634 near John Putnam. He also gives the inference that in 1632 he was one of the retainers of Gov. Endicott. Endicott came to Salem in 1628. Other emigrants came the next year, and it is not improbable that John Putnam and his family were among them.

CHILDREN OF JOHN AND PRISCILLA PUTNAM.

Elizabeth, Thomas, Nathaniel, Sara, Phebe and John, all born in England before 1627.

II—NATHANIEL PUTNAM—ELIZABETH HUTCHINSON.

Nathaniel Putnam, son of John of Salem, born Oct. 11, 1619, died at Salem July 23, 1700, married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard and Alice (Bosworth) Hutchinson. (See Hutchinson ancestors). She was born in England, baptized Aug. 30, 1629, died June 24, 1688. They were members of the church in Salem. The Putnams were usually active Christians. He was an energetic man of public spirit, and "left a large estate."

CHILDREN.

Samuel, Nathaniel, John, Joseph, Elizabeth, Benjamin, Mary. All born at Salem. Elizabeth married George Flint; Mary, John Tufts.

III—JOHN PUTNAM—HANNAH CUTLER.

John Putnam, son of Nathaniel, born March 26, 1657, died at Salem September, 1722, married there Dec. 2, 1678, Hannah, daughter of Samuel and Eliza Cutler. She was born December, 1655.

He was a farmer, and held several offices in the town during his life.

CHILDREN.

Hannah, Elizabeth, Abigail, Samuel, Josiah, Joseph, Mary, Susanna, Joshua, David or Daniel, Rebecca, John, Sarah, Amos, Priscilla.

Elizabeth married John Phelps of Reading.

Cutler Ancestors note: John Cutler came from England in 1637, settled at Hingham, Mass., died in 1638, leaving his widow, Mary, and several children, one of whom was Samuel. The latter came over with his father, was at Marblehead in 1654, and at Salem in 1655, where his daughter, Hannah, married John Putnam as above. Samuel Cutler died in 1700. The wife of Samuel was Elizabeth ———. She died in 1693.

IV—JOSIAH PUTNAM—RUTH HUTCHINSON.

Josiah Putnam was born at Salem, Mass., Oct. 29, 1686, and died there July 5, 1766. He married Ruth, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Swinerton) Hutchinson. Ruth was born Feb. 26, 1690, and was a great-granddaughter of Richard Hutchinson, and her husband his great-grandson (see Hutchinson Ancestors). Josiah is styled "Yeoman."

CHILDREN.

Asa, Enos, Josiah, Peter, Elizabeth, Elisha and Ruth, who married Mr. Russell.

V—JOSIAH PUTNAM—LYDIA WHEELER.

Josiah Putnam, son of Josiah, born at Salem, March 3, 1719, died at Warren, Mass., February 4, 1795, married January 13, 1740, Lydia Wheeler of Brookfield. She was born August 14, 1721. He was a Captain in Col. Jedediah Foster's regiment, was at Lexington, April 19, 1775, and among his men was his son, Josiah.

CHILDREN.

2—	Thomas.	Nathaniel.
3—	Edward.	John.
4—	Elisha.	Josiah.
4—	Gen. Rufus.	Josiah.

Hutchinson Ancestors.

The Hutchinson family has been notable both in England and America. It is not the purpose here to elaborate, but to make special note of this ancestral line as an illustration. It has been preserved for more than seven hundred years, and is shown, together with descendants of the family in New England in Parts II and III of vol. X of the Historical Collections, published by Essex Institute in 1870. The line, down to the intermarriage with the Putnam ancestors, is from that publication, and is given here without note or comment as a suggestive curiosity.

I—BARNARD HUTCHINSON— ——— BOYVILLE.

Living in A. D. 1282, Cowlam, York County, England.

II—JOHN HUTCHINSON—EDITH WOULDIE.

III—JAMES HUTCHINSON—URSULA GREGORY.

IV—JOSIAH PUTNAM—RUTH HUTCHINSON.

This is identical with No. IV Putnam Ancestors.

Collins Ancestors.

I—DANIEL COLLINS—SARAH TIBBALS.

Daniel Collins was of Enfield, Conn., in 1683, where he died May 3, 1690, aged 42. It is not improbable that he was descended from Edward Collins (Cambridge, 1636) but the writer has been unable to trace the connection.

His wife, Sarah, was daughter of Thomas Tibbals, who sailed from England in the Truelove in 1635, aged twenty. He served in the Pequot war in 1637, was at Milford in 1646; was twice married; by second marriage he had Sarah, who was born Nov. 29, 1654. Thomas Tibbals died in 1703. Sarah married first Daniel Collins, second Joseph Warriner and third Obadiah Abbey—(Burt's Springfield).

The children of Daniel and Sarah were Daniel, Patience, who married Killam, Nathan and Sarah.

II—NATHAN COLLINS—ANNA COOLEY.

Nathan Collins, son of Daniel was born at Enfield, May 31, 1683, died at Brimfield, Mass., Aug. 8, 1767. He married about January 1710-11 Anna Cooley of Springfield, lived first at Springfield and later at Brimfield until his death. In June, 1731 there was a drawing of lots (120 acres each) at Brimfield and one lot was assigned to him, and one lot to "one of his sons." In Dec. 1731, their parents were authorized to determine which one of their sons shall have the lot. In May, 1732, there was a drawing of lots where Nathan Collins drew one and Nathaniel Collins another. In Sept. 1757, a pew in church was assigned to Nathan Collins and wife and another to Nathan Collins, Jr. and wife. (Hist. Brimfield.)

III—NATHAN COLLINS—PHEBE WELD.

Nathan Collins, son of last, married Feby. 27, 1746,

Phebe daughter of Daniel Weld. He died at Brimfield in 1765, two years before his father. Phebe Weld was born July 23, 1722.

THEIR CHILDREN.

Anna and Tabitha (twins), born Feb. 25, 1747, Phebe, born Nov. 24, 1748, Tirzah, born Aug. 13, 1752, Nathan, born Sept. 5, 1755, Asenath, born May 28, 1759, Lewis, born Dec. 19, 1760. Of these children, Anna Collins married Asa Putnam, Tabitha, David Morgan, Tirzah, Caleb Morgan, Phebe, Phineas Hill and Asenath, Nathaniel Miller.

IV.—ANNA COLLINS—ASA PUTNAM.

Anna Collins, born Feb. 25, 1747, married Asa Putnam, July 24, 1766. This is identical with No. VI Putnam Ancestors.

Weld Ancestors.

I—JOSEPH WELD———.

Joseph Weld, known as Captain Weld, came over in 1633, kept a store in Roxbury, Mass., and is said in History of Roxbury to have been the wealthiest merchant in New England at that time. Died Oct. 1646. Was probably father of

II—DANIEL WELD—MARY HINSDALE.

Daniel Weld, born July 25, 1642, died Dec. 16, 1699, married at Dedham, June 8, 1664, Mary, daughter of Robert Hinsdale. Of this marriage there were five children of whom Daniel next following was the fifth.

Robert Hinsdale was born in England about 1617, and was one of the first settlers of Dedham, Mass., where he is found in 1638. His wife was Ann Woodward, probably daughter of Peter Woodward. He removed from Dedham to Hadley, Mass., where he was slain by the Indians in 1675.

III—DANIEL WELD—MARY WARRINER.

Daniel Weld, born 1680, married Mary, daughter of Joseph Warriner, Sept. 28, 1711. The names of eight children of this marriage are given in the history of Enfield of whom the fifth was Phebe who married Nathan Collins.

IV—PHEBE WELD—NATHAN COLLINS.

This No. IV. is identical with No. III. Collins' Ancestors.

V—ASA PUTNAM—ANNA COLLINS.

This No. V. is identical with No. VI Putnam ancestors where line is continued.

Warriner Ancestors.

I—WILLIAM WARRINER—JOANNA SEARLE.

William Warriner married July 31, 1639, Joanna Searle, who was a sister of John Searle of Springfield, Mass. She died Sept. 12, 1660, and he married second the widow of Luke Hitchcock. William Warriner died June 2, 1676.

II—JOSEPH WARRINER—SARAH TIBBALS.

Joseph Warriner of Enfield, born Feb. 6, 1644, married, first, Mary Montague, by whom he had nine children. She died July 22, 1689, and he married, second, July 15, 1691, Sarah (Tibbals) Collins, the widow of Daniel Collins (Collins, No. 1). Of this, second, marriage two children (twins) were born, viz: May 4, 1692, Mary and Abigail. He died in 1697. He came from Northfield to Enfield.

III—MARY WARRINER—DANIEL WELD.

Mary Warriner, twin daughter of Joseph Warriner, married Daniel Weld as before stated. By this marriage their daughter Phebe, who married Nathan Collins, was the double grand-daughter of Sarah Tibbals, who married successively Daniel Collins and Joseph Warriner.

This No. III is identical with No. III Weld Ancestors where more facts are stated.

Cooley Ancestors.

I—BENJAMIN COOLEY—SARAH ———.

Benjamin Cooley was in Springfield as early as 1644, when his name first appears in the tax lists. He was the ancestor of most of the various branches of the Cooley family in America, was a weaver—was a selectman of Springfield for eighteen years, and occupied other official positions—was very active in the public life of the town. He died Aug. 17, 1684 and his wife, Sarah ——— six days later.

Burt's history of Springfield gives the names of eight children born there, the second of these was Obadiah, born Jany. 27, 1847—1847

II—OBADIAH COOLEY—REBECCA WILLIAMS.

Obadiah Cooley, son of Benjamin, born as above, died Sept. 3, 1690, lived in Springfield, married Rebecca Williams, daughter of John and Mary (Burley) Williams, at Windsor; after his death his widow married John Warner and died Oct. 18, 1715. She was the fourth wife of Warner.

CHILDREN OF OBADIAH AND REBECCA.

Rebecca, Sarah, Mary, Obadiah, Anna, Joseph and Jonathan.

III—ANNA COOLEY—NATHAN COLLINS.

Anna Cooley was born March 5, 1681, and married Nathan Collins about January, 1710-11. "They settled in Brimfield." Burt's History of Springfield, Vol. 2, 551, N. E. Gen. and Hist. Register, Vol. 39, 267.

No. III is identical with No. II of Collins' ancestors, where the line is continued.

PART IV.

MASTERS MEMORANDA.

It has not been possible to gather much information concerning the first American ancestor in this line. In those early days records of immigration were not well preserved in the western part of Virginia. The name and the fact is about all that can be stated certainly.

I—HILLORY MASTERS—SUSAN ———.

Hillory Masters emigrated from Wales and settled in Wythe County, Virginia.

II—THOMAS MASTERS—ELIZABETH MATLOCK.

Thomas Masters, son of Hillory, removed from Virginia to Tennessee early in the last century. He married Elizabeth Matlock, and they had twelve children, viz.:

Squire Davis, James Madison, Polly, Susan, Sarah, Nancy, Wilbur, William, Robert, Emaline, Thomas, William (?)

III—SQUIRE DAVIS MASTERS—LUCINDA YOUNG.

Squire Davis Masters, son of Thomas, was born in Overton County, Tenn., Nov. 14, 1812, died Feb. 2, 1904. Married at Jacksonville, Ill., March 6, 1834, Lucinda Young. She was the daughter of Lawrence Young, and was born near Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11, 1814. Her mother's maiden name was Margaret Wasson. Squire D. and Lucinda Masters resided until his death near Petersburg, Ill. In March, 1902, they celebrated the sixty-eighth anniversary of their marriage. He was then ninety years old, she eighty-eight! His widow still resides on the Petersburg farm. He was a soldier in the Blackhawk war, and a member of the Illinois legislature in 1855; was a friend of Abraham Lincoln, and well acquainted with the leading men of Illinois in the pioneer days. He was for a number of years a justice of the peace. Lincoln was the attorney on one side in a case tried before Esquire Masters in the hot weather of mid-summer. The trial lasted two days, and was conducted in the open air under the shade of two large maple trees.

The children born to Squire D. and Lucinda were:

Minerva Henry, Hardin Wallace, Anna Mellissa, Mary, Lulu, Emma, and Wilbur Davis.

Minerva married Rev. B. T. Vincent, D. D., of Chautauqua fame, and resides in Greeley, Colorado.

IV—HARDIN WALLACE MASTERS—EMMA J. DEXTER.

Declined unanimous democratic nomination for Congress 1898. Elected mayor of Lewiston 1899, re-elected 1901. For many years member of the board of supervisors of Fulton Co. by the choice of both political parties. Married Emma Jerusha Dexter, Sept. 11, 1867; the latter was born in Brattleboro, Vermont, Aug. 16, 1849. Children of Hardin Wallace and Emma J. (Dexter) Masters:

Edgar Lee, born Aug. 23, 1868.

Madeline Ellen, born Aug. 18, 1873.

Alexander Dexter, born Aug. 18, 1874.

Thomas Davis, born Sept. 12, 1876.

Madeline Ellen Masters married Feb. 23, 1893, Dr. Carl D. Stone, son of the late Horatio O. Stone of Chicago, Ill. They have children:

Elizabeth Masters Stone, born Feb. 24, 1894.

Emma Louise Stone, born Feb. 3, 1897.

Horatio Odell Stone, born June 26, 1899.

All born in Chicago, where their parents reside.

Thomas Davis Masters married, June 10, 1900, Gertrude Mettler of Toledo, O. They reside in Lewiston, Ill., where he is a practicing lawyer, in partnership with his father.

Masters-Dexter Note.

Rev. Deming S. Dexter, the father of Emma Jerusha Dexter (Masters) was born in Newark, Vt., June 15, 1815, and died in Marlboro, N. H., Aug. 20, 1873. He was the son of James Dexter of Newark. Deming S. began to preach when he was eighteen years of age, and became a most useful and greatly beloved minister. In charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Marlboro, N. H., his ministry was most efficient and fruitful. He was also greatly honored as a citizen. About 1880 a memorial window was placed in his Marlboro Church in recognition of his services, and as a tribute to his life. The history of Marlboro (pp. 130-132) contains a brief sketch of his notable work. Jerusha Humphrey (his wife) was finely educated and was an accomplished linguist and mathematician. See Masters-Humphrey notes VIII.

V—EDGAR LEE MASTERS—HELEN MARY JENKINS.

Edgar Lee Masters, son of Hardin Wallace Masters, was born in Garnett, Kas., Aug. 23, 1868, married in Chicago, June 21, 1898, Helen Mary Jenkins. (See Jenkins Genealogy.

He is a successful practicing lawyer in Chicago, the junior member of the firm of Darrow and Masters.

Notes on the Edgar Lee Masters ancestors, or first column are as follows:

Masters-Putnam Notes.—Continued.

I—JOHN PUTNAM—PRISCILLA GOULD.

John Putnam, son of Nicholas and Margaret (Goodspeed) Putnam of Ashton Abbott, Bucks Co., England; emigrated to America and settled at Salem, Mass., about 1634. He is the common ancestor in the preceding table.

II—LIEUTENANT THOMAS PUTNAM—ANNE HOLYOKE.

Thomas Putnam, son of John, born in England in 1615, married Aug. 17, 1643, Anne, daughter of Edward and Prudence (Stockton) Holyoke. She died Sept. 1, 1665, and he married, second, Mary Veren, widow of Nathaniel Veren. He was prominent in the affairs of Salem and a number of pages are given to his history in the Putnam Genealogy. He was Lieutenant by appointment of the General Court, in a troop of horse. There were eight children by his first wife, Anne: Ann who married Wm. Trask, Sarah, Mary, Thomas, Edward, Deliverance, Elizabeth, Prudence, and one, Joseph, by his second wife Mary. This Thomas Putnam was grand-father of Major General Israel Putnam.

III—EDWARD PUTNAM—MARY HALE.

Edward Putnam, second son of Thomas, born at Salem, baptized July 4, 1654, married, July 14, 1681, Mary, daughter of Thomas Hale. He died March 10, 1747. He is known as "Deacon," as were also numbers IV and V next following. He had sons, Edward, Elisha, Ezra and Isaac, and daughters, Prudence and Abigail. Thomas Hale, father of Mary, married, May 22, 1657, Mary Hutchinson. She was daughter of Richard and Alice (Bosworth) Hutchinson. They were ancestors in two lines of Helen Mary (Jenkins) Masters as shown ante under "Hutchinson Ancestors" and now appear as also ancestors of her husband, Edgar Lee Masters.

This Thomas Hale was born in 1633, and was son of Thomas Hale, who emigrated from England, where he was born at Wolden Huts, May 15, 1606.

IV—ELISHA PUTNAM—SUSANNA FULLER.

Elisha Putnam was the third son of Edward, and was born at Salem, Nov. 3, 1685, married Susanna Fuller, Feb. 15, 1713; settled at Sutton, Mass., about 1725, where he died June 10, 1745. Children: Elisha, Hannah, Nehemiah, Jonathan, Susanna, Mary, Stephen, Amos, Eunice, Huldah and Rufus. The last was Major General in Revolutionary army.

This Elisha Putnam was prominent in church and town affairs. "He was representative to the General Court, town clerk and treasurer, besides holding many minor offices." He was first married to Hannah Marble, who died early, and all said children are by second marriage. Susanna Fuller, his wife, was daughter of Jonathan and Susan (Trask) Fuller of Salem and Topsfield. Said Jonathan Fuller was son of Lieutenant Thomas Fuller whose wife was Elizabeth Tidd, daughter of John Tidd, emigrant from England.

V—ELISHA PUTNAM—LYDIA CHASE.

Elisha Putnam, son of Elisha, was born Dec. 2, 1715, married Lydia Chase, March 3, 1742, served in the army during the French and Indian War, and was killed in 1758 in the attack on Ticonderoga. Children: Andrew, Elisha, Antipas, Jokton, Luke, William. His wife, Lydia was a daughter of Philip and Mary (Follansbee) Chase, and was born Aug.

12, 1722. Her mother was daughter of Thomas Follansbee of Newberry, Mass. The Chase line is as follows:

(1) Aquilla Chase of Chesham, England, who is said to have had an immense fortune which for some reason escheated to the British government.

(2) Aquilla Chase, son of last, born 1618, died Dec. 29, 1670; emigrated to America, was at Hampton, N. H., and removed from there to Newberry, Mass., in 1646. He married Anne, daughter of John Wheeler from England, 1634.

(3) John Chase, born in Newbury, Mass., Nov. 2, 1655, married May 23, 1677, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Preston) Bingley. Their son Philip, above named, was born in Newbury, Mass., Sept. 23, 1688.

VI—ANDREW PUTNAM—LUCY PARKS.

Andrew Putnam, eldest son of Elisha, born at Sutton, Mass., May 2, 1742, married Lucy Parks, Jan. 10, 1764 died April 26, 1819. Lived in Winchester, Greenfield and Townsend, Mass.

CHILDREN.

Andrew, Malachi, Peter, Stephen, David, Elizabeth, Sally, Lucy and Mary.

Lucy Parks was daughter of Jonathan and Lucy (Sibley) Parks.

The Sibley line is:

(1) John Sibley, came to Salem, Mass., in 1629, died in 1661, married Ann Pickworth.

(2) Joseph Sibley, son of above, born in 1655, married Susanna, daughter of Wm. Follett.

(3) Samuel Sibley, born 1697, married Martha Dick. They were the parents of said Lucy who married Jonathan Parks.

The Dick line is also interesting:

(1) Samuel Dick, born in Scotland in 1622, married Mary Perkins.

(2) Anthony Dick, born 1651, married Mary Pool of Abington in 1675.

(3) Anthony Dick, born 1679, married Mary Curtis, 1700, and were probably the parents of Martha who married Samuel Sibley.

VII—MARY PUTNAM—JOHN HUMPHREY.

Mary Putnam, youngest child of Andrew, married John Humphrey, 1808. This is identical with VII in Masters-Humphrey notes, and VIII, IX, X and XI may be continued from there.

PART V.

LOGAN MEMORANDA.

Joseph Logan, the first known American ancestor, is located as a resident of Birmingham Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1749. He was then on the tax list. He may have been there sometime before, or have lived previously in New Castle County, now in the state of Delaware. His father was probably the emigrant, but his name and time of arrival have not been discovered. Originally Scotch, always Protestant, the Logan ancestors passed over into Ireland, and later fell in with the Scotch-Irish emigration, which added so much to the robust and worthy citizenship of Pennsylvania.

Logan-Harry Note.

Mr. Gilbert Cope of West Chester, Pennsylvania, has written the genealogy of Mary Harry. The outline is as follows :

I—HUGH HARRIS, or HARRY—ELIZABETH BRINTON.

II—HUGH HARRY—ELIZABETH WICKERSHAM.

III—BENJAMIN HARRY—MARY CLOUD.

IV—MARY HARRY—JOSEPH LOGAN. No. II. above.

I insert memoranda from Mr. Cope, as follows:

Among the passengers on the "Vine of Liverpool," which arrived at Philadelphia, 7 mo. 17, 1684, were "From Macchinleth in Montgomeryshire, Hugh Harris and Daniel Harris."

Hugh Harris and Elizabeth Brinton, daughter of William and Ann Brinton, of Birmingham, declared their intentions of marriage at Chichester Meeting 1st mo. 1st, 1685-6, and again 2d mo. 12th, 1686, and were doubtless married soon after the last date. He was a weaver and settled in Birmingham Township, Chester County, on land conveyed to him by his father-in-law, where he died in 1708.

The will of Hugh Harris, of "Brumingham, wever, being sick," &c., was dated 1 mo. 27, 1708, and proven Sept. 28, 1708. He directed his wife and executrix, Elizabeth Harris, to sell the plantation and pay £5 to each of the children when of age. To his son Evan he gave the "waving Loom and Gares thereunto belonging." His children as named were Evan, William, Hugh, John, Elizabeth, Ann, Jane, Lois and Olive.

It is presumed that Hugh Harris, or Harry, as the name has been written by later generations, was a follower of George Keith, who created a schism in the Society of Friends about 1692, but some of the children afterward joined with Friends.

Hugh Harry of Kennet Township, Chester County, and Elizabeth Wickersham, of the same place, were married 1 mo. 4, 1730, at Kennet Meeting. By deed of April 10, 1728, Hugh Harry, of Kennet, purchased from Joseph Taylor 150 acres of land in what was then Kennet, afterward Pennsbury and now Pocopson Township, for £75.

The will of Hugh Harry, of Kennet, is dated 3 mo. 29, 1760, and proven June 24, 1760. After providing for Elizabeth his wife he gives to son James 10 acres of land to be surveyed off the plantation; to daughter Elizabeth Harry £20 "at her first marriage;" to sons Stephen, Jesse, Benjamin, Nathan and Thomas £5 each. The three younger children, Jesse, Benjamin and Nathan to be put to trades at 16. Residue of estate, real and personal, to son Evan who was also executor.

Benjamin Harry and wife, Mary (Cloud), were disowned by Kennet Monthly Meeting of Friends, in 1768, for marriage by a "priest" as they termed ministers of other denominations.

They had three children, Stephen, Jesse and Mary, of whom the last named married Joseph Logan.

The genealogy of the Bailey family shows the Cloud-Baily lines as follows:

I—JOEL BAILY—ANN SHORT, married in 1687.

II—JEREMIAH CLOUD—ANN BAILY.

III—WILLIAM CLOUD—MARY PIERCE.

IV—MARY CLOUD—BENJAMIN HARRY, parents of Mary, who married Joseph Logan II.

III—WILLIAM LOGAN—HANNAH PYLE.

William Logan, first son of Joseph and Mary (Harry) Logan, was born at East Fallowfield, Chester County, January 4, 1788, died October 26, 1842. He married Hannah, daughter of Abner and Mary Pyle. She was born October 28, 1786. They resided near Coatesville in Chester County, about three miles from Chadd's Ford, and nine miles from West Chester.

CHILDREN.

Philena Logan, born October 10, 1811, married Benjamin Bing.

Mary Ann Logan, born May 18, 1814, married John Barnes.

William Pyle Logan, born August 27, 1822.

Phebe Logan, born October 5, 1824, died July 31, 1842.

Eli Hayes Logan, born August 2, 1827, died Feb. 11, 1896.

The last named, Eli Hayes Logan, married Sarah Elizabeth Springer, lived at Oxford, Chester County, Pennsylvania, and had seven children, all of whom are deceased, except William Mortimer, the eldest, and Mary Louisa, the youngest. One daughter, Ella, married John R. Poole and left two children.

Mary Louisa Logan married, July 16, 1896, Howard T. McCrery. They live at Collamer, Pennsylvania, and have one child, Elizabeth Irene McCrery.

Logan-Pyle Note.

Mr. Gilbert Cope, before quoted, writes :

“Robert, Nicholas and Ralph Pyle, or Pile as some of them wrote it, came from Wiltshire, England, I believe in 1683. They were doubtless sons of Robert Pyle of Stanton Barnard in Wilts. Robert was married in England but Nicholas married here. These two were Friends while Ralph was an Episcopalian, and all were at times members of the Provincial Assembly. Ralph settled in Concord Township, Chester (now Delaware) County and died in 1741, leaving a son William. The latter married Betty Chads and died in Birmingham Township, June 1, 1746, leaving children, Ralph, Joseph, John, William, Elinor, Mary and Sarah. Of these Joseph inherited 350 acres of land in West Marlborough, married Ruth Hayes and died in 1793, leaving children, Abner, Alice, Betty, Ruth, Mary, Jacob, Jane, Sarah and Joseph. Abner died July, 1793, a few months after his father, leaving widow Mary and children, Jehu, Hannah, Eli, Jonathan and Abner. The records of Orphans' Court represent that both Abner and his father were of East Marlborough, though Hannah Logan is said to have been born in West Marlborough."

IV—WILLIAM PYLE LOGAN—SARAH JANE MCCOMBS.

William Pye Logan, first son of William and Hannah (Pyle) Logan, was born at East Fallowfield, Chester County, Pennsylvania, August 27, 1822, and died in 1889. He married, March 20, 1845, at her father's home near Coatesville, Pennsylvania, Sarah Jane McCombs.

CHILDREN.

- 1 Phebe Chaffen Logan, born October 24, 1846.
- 2 William Logan, born September 11, 1848.
- 3 James Franklin Logan, born September 3, 1850.
- 4 Hannah Logan, born August 12, 1852.
- 5 Alfred Alexander Logan, born September 30, 1854.

9 Sarah Emma Logan married Floyd Colwell, reside at Tarkio, Mo.

10 Clara Elizabeth Logan married Alexander Hull, resides at Tarkio, Mo.

Logan-McCombs Note.

Mr. A. P. McCombs of Havre de Grace, Maryland, furnishes items for the following as to the McCombs family :

I—Thomas McCombs, the great-grandfather of Sarah Jane McCombs, who married William Pyle Logan, emigrated from Scotland to Armagh, Ireland, where his son next following, was born. The McCombs (or Macomb) were, therefore of original Scotch origin.

II—WILLIAM MCCOMBS—ELIZABETH —

William McCombs was born in 1765. He became acquainted with his wife Elizabeth on the vessel coming over to America in 1787, and they were married after landing at New Castle, Delaware. He bought land upon which he settled near Newark, Delaware. Here seven children were born to them: George T. James, William, Sarah Ann, Jane, Rachel and Lydia.

Said William, Jr., was a prominent member of Philadelphia Conference M. E. Church for more than fifty years; Sarah Ann married John Christy; Jane married Jonathan Golden; Rachel married William Coffle; and Lydia married Wm. Ball. There are numerous descendants, many of them in and around Philadelphia.

George T. McCombs was born in 1797, and married Eleanor Pidzer, the youngest of the seven children of Abram Pidzer, July 19, 1823. There were four children of this marriage of whom said A. P. McCombs, born June 16, 1824, is the eldest. George T. McCombs was killed near Wilkesbarre, Pennsylvania, in 1836. He was a Methodist minister—killed by Catholics in a religious riot on account of his faith. A. P. McCombs married March 29, 1849. Maria C. Schott of Lebanon, Pennsylvania. Besides five who died in infancy, there were four children of this marriage: William S., born January 4, 1850, lives at Havre de Grace, Md.; Louis, born April 17, 1853, died May 24, 1867; Sallie, born October 16, 1867, died January 8, 1889; and Mary, born December 29, 1874.

III—REV. JAMES MCCOMBS—HANNAH COWDEN.

Rev. James McCombs, was born, either in Philadelphia, or Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1797. He was a Methodist preacher, but afterward changed his polity and served in like capacity with the United Brethren. He married Hannah Cowden. (See note Logan-Cowden). They lived during the later years of their lives at Doylestown, Ohio, where both died. They had four sons and three daughters: Harry, Alfred, Thomas and Robert, Sarah Jane, Catherine E. and Hannah, all of whom are dead (1903), except Thomas who resides at Rockwell City, Iowa. Sarah Jane married William Pyle Logan, Catherine E. married Philip Barnes and Hannah married Benjamin McFarland, who still lives and holds an important position in the Philadelphia post office.

IV—SARAH JANE MCCOMBS—WILLIAM PYLE LOGAN.

See ante.

Logan-Cowden Note.

Mr. Robert Cowden of Dayton, Ohio, furnishes the following:

I—Robert Cowden was brought by his family from North of Ireland to America when five years of age. Here he married and had at least two sons, John and II—Robert Cowden, born April 3rd, 1767, departed this life May 26th, 1845, aged 78 years, 1 month, 13 days.

Catherine, his wife, born June 10th, 1765, and departed this life December 29th, 1818, aged 56 years, 6 months and 19 days.

THEIR OFFSPRING.

1 John Cowden, born January 21st, 1787, and departed this life January 7th, 1812, aged 24 years, 11 months, 16 days—never married.

2 Jane Cowden, born February 2nd, 1779, departed February 3rd, 1779, aged 1 day.

3. Jinnet M'Chesney Cowden, born November 14, 1790, and departed this life in Highland County, Ohio, February 8th, 1847, aged 56 years, 2 months, 24 days. She was the second wife of Jacob, father of Simon Snyder. Died childless.

4 Catherine Cowden, born October 28th, 1792, died near Seville, Ohio, December 11th, 1860, aged 68 years, 1 month, 13 days. Was the wife of Peter Hamsher, raised two sons and four daughters.

5 Robert Cowden, born May 5th, 1795, died April 9th, 1871, aged 75 years, 11 months and 4 days—unmarried.

6 David Cowden, born March 5th, 1797, and departed this life in Richland County, Ohio, June 17th, 1838, aged 41 years, 3 months, 12 days, left widow and two living children and two children had died.

7 Hannah Cowden, born August 12th, 1799, died January 7th, 1872 in Doylestown, Wayne County, Ohio, aged 72 years, 4 months, 25 days, wife of Rev. James McCombs.

8 James Cowden, born September 9th, 1801, died in Carroll County, Ohio, November 23rd, 1851, aged 50 years, 2 months and 14 days. Left widow and three children.

9 William Cowden, born January 6th, 1804, died in Mifflin County, Pennsylvania, June 16th, 1867, aged 63 years, 5 months and 10 days. Left widow and five living children.

10 Margaret Cowden, born January 27th, 1806, departed this life in Chester County, Pennsylvania, May 4th, 1854, aged 48 years, 3 months, 28 days—unmarried.

11 Samuel Homes Cowden, born July 5th, 1810, and departed this life September 9th, 1815, aged 5 years, 2 months and 4 days.

Mr. Robert Cowden of Dayton, Ohio, is son of David, No. 6 above.

It is probable that the first Robert Cowden died an old man in Chester County, Pennsylvania in 1817, and that his wife was named Jenny and died there in 1810, aged 82.

V—WILLIAM LOGAN—SARAH JANE JACKSON.

William Logan, first son of William Pyle Logan born September 11, 1848, married at Nauvoo, Illinois, December 26, 1871, Sarah Jane Jackson. They reside in Keokuk, Iowa. William Logan was six years County
